Coach Gottfried will conduct a weekly press conference at noon on Tuesdays in the Eiseman-Prussin Athletic Conference Room, located at Gate 2 of Pitt Stadium. Generally, there will be one or two players and an assistant coach available at the press conference.

Player interviews will be set up only by the sports information department. Please allow at least one day's notice or more, if possible. There will be no player interviews after Wednesday evening in game weeks. Players' phone numbers will not be released.

Game Tickets: In accordance with recommendations from the Associated Press Sports Editor's Association, complimentary tickets will not be available to the media. Those wishing to purchase tickets are urged to contact the sports information department, which will accept and place orders to help ensure the best possible seating.

Credentials: All requests for working press, photo, and broadcast credentials for Pitt's 1989 home games should be made in writing on company letterhead at least two weeks before the game in question. Direct all requests in writing to Linda Venzon, Sports Information Director, University of Pittsburgh, P.O. Coaches

Head Coach Mike Gottfried

Mike Gottfried, a product of Crestline, Ohio, a town of 5,000 churchgoers and sports fans three hours from Pittsburgh, abandoned the idea of being a priest in fifth grade.

It wasn't that he was ignoring the values of family, faith, and hard work that had been instilled in him as a youth. And he didn't surprise many by picking a whistle instead of a clerical collar to wear around his neck. After all, this was the grade school youngster who organized the games at recess; who put all the best athletes on his team until the nuns caught on and made him even the sides; and who read The Knute Rockne Story five times.

He made up his mind that he wanted to be a coach, and he learned early to go after what you want — don't wait. That drive was a catalyst for his rapid move up the coaching ladder, during which he was recognized as one of the forerunners of a young and energetic generation of college coaches — innovative and marketable. His progression culminated in December of 1985, when Mike Gottfried was named Pitt's 29th head football coach. Then in April of 1988 the University of Pittsburgh reaffirmed its conviction that Mike Gottfried was a winner — on the field and off — by announcing it had signed him to a new long-term, multi-year contract.

"We feel strongly that in Coach Mike Gottfried we have the ideal person to provide the leadership and direction necessary to ensure that Pitt remains one of the elite football programs in the country," Pitt President Dr. Wesley Posvar said at the time.

"Coach Gottfried is a person with high integrity, and he embodies the value systems that are important to the University of Pittsburgh. Our football program is in the right hands."

At Pitt, Gottfried has rejuvenated a Panther football program that had stalled prior to his arrival. His record with the Panthers is 19-14-1 during three consecutive non-losing seasons and features two wins each over Notre Dame, Penn State and West Virginia. His 1987 squad had an 8-4 record capped by an invitation to the Bluebonnet Bowl. It was the Panthers' first bowl appearance since 1983. Three of his freshman recruiting classes have been rated among the nation's finest. Gottfried has coached six All-Americans and eight top NFL draft picks during his brief tenure.

Gottfried, 45, is recognized among his peers as an excellent coach — tireless, organized, innovative and adaptive. He was the head coach of the East Squad in the East-West Shrine game and was an assistant coach in 1986 and 1987. He will coach in the 1989 Japan Bowl. In 1987 he convinced legendary Pro Football Hall-of-Famer Sid Gillman to help the program by volunteering his time for much of the season.

"The discipline he's brought to this squad is absolutely terrific," said Gillman at the time.

Known as one of the most innovative offensive minds in college football, Gottfried has lectured extensively throughout the country and counts the Dallas Cowboys among his past audiences. He has won at Pitt by emphasizing the passing game (John Congemi, with 2,048 yards in 1986, had the third highest seasonal passing total in Pitt history); he has won at Pitt by emphasizing the running game (Craig Heyward with 1,791 yards in 1987 had the second highest season rushing total in Pitt history); and he has won at Pitt by featuring a more balanced offense (Pitt averaged 253 yards per game rushing and 161 yards per game passing last year).

But despite his reputation for grooming offenses, Gottfried knows that the defensive side of the ball is just as important. That is why in each of his first three seasons, his defensive troops have statistically been ranked among the Top 10 in the country.

Just as important as Gottfried's mastery of x's and o's is the fact that his players recognize his leadership.

"Playing for Coach Gottfried gives you the enthusiasm to win because he's such a great competitor," says All-American center candidate Dean Caliguire. "He has a good football mind, but I think he looks out for us off the field more than the average college coach does."

"Coach Gottfried has shown me that a lot of the game is played upstairs and he has taught me how to understand the game," says tailback Curvin Richards, UPI and The Sporting News Freshman of the Year. "As a person, he's a friend to us all."

"Coach Gottfried wants all of us to become great players and reach our goals on the field,"

says strong safety Dan Crossman. "But more important, he wants us to become good people in everyday walks of life."

Gottfried's progression from quarterback at Morehead State to high school and college coach to coaching at Pitt has been a rapid one. He started coaching at Norwalk (Ohio) St. Paul High School in 1967.

He was a high school coach in his native Ohio for seven years before moving on to become offensive coordinator at Youngstown State University in 1974. That year, he helped YSU to an 8-1 record and the NCAA Division II playoffs.

Gottfried was the offensive backfield coach at the University of Cincinnati in 1975 and 1976. He held a similar position at the University of Arizona in 1977.

In 1978, Murray State afforded Gottfried his first collegiate head coaching opportunity. He compiled a 22-11-1 record in three seasons there.

He returned to Cincinnati as head coach in 1981 and guided the Bearcats — who had won only two of 11 games for two consecutive years — to back-to-back 6-5 marks. This was despite having a schedule that included Pitt, Penn State, Florida State, South Carolina, Alabama and Miami of Florida.

Gottfried was named head coach at Kansas in 1983. Despite inheriting a team that finished 2-7-2 the previous year, Gottfried coached the Jayhawks to a 4-6-1 record.

In 1984, he was selected the Associated Press Big Eight Coach of the Year, leading Kansas to a 5-6 mark and a victory over Oklahoma, then ranked No. 2 in the nation. Kansas was 6-6 in Gottfried's final season there, before he traveled east to Pitt.

"I really feel good about Pittsburgh, the people and the city," Gottfried said. "I'm going to keep working hard to put this program back where it belongs: where each year we have a chance to win, a chance to compete in a bowl game, a chance to be in the Top 20, and, occasionally, a chance to compete for the national title."

Gottfried's influence has gone far beyond the football field. He has made academics a cornerstone of the Panther football program. His football camp was one of the first such summer camps to feature sessions aimed at high school students in regards to the SAT test. Gottfried does not accept anything less than maximum effort in the classroom.

"We're not going to hand a kid his eligibility, no matter how good he is," he promises.

Gottfried also eagerly devotes himself to community service — the Special Olympics, Fellowship of Christian Athletes and other charitable functions.

He has convictions he has clung to even when the practical course of action may have been to compromise. Gottfried has authored an article for the New York Times, appeared on network television, and testified before the Pennsylvania legislature, decrying the role of unscrupulous sports agents in college athletics. Pennsylvania has now passed a law attempting to regulate this group.

Mike Gottfried has another conviction, too. A conviction, rooted in his traditional working-class upbringing, that hard work and dedication can overcome many obstacles.

A few years ago, a sophomore walk-on on the Pitt team was in a financial predicament and close to dropping out of school. He was not athletically talented enough to receive a grant-in-aid, but Gottfried nonetheless gave him one.

"I don't know that you'll ever play a down here," he told the young man. "I'll tell you how you can pay me back. Study hard. Practice hard. Graduate. Be a good person."

Strong safety Anthony Jagers from Cleveland, Ohio, is a senior now. He hasn't recorded a single tackle during his Panther career. But he will graduate this spring.

Typical Mike Gottfried.

Assistant Coaches

Bob Valesente
Assistant Head Coach/
Defensive Coordinator

Bob Valesente, named Pitt's assistant head coach and defensive coordinator last spring, begins his 25th season coaching football, and is considered a shrewd defensive strategist.

Valesente, 48, is well versed on Mike Gottfried's coaching philosophy after working as his assistant head coach and quarterback coach at Kansas (1984-85). They were members of the same staffs at Arizona and Cincinnati.

Valesente played football (halfback) and baseball (catcher/outfielder) for four years at Ithaca College. He led the school to the College World Series in baseball in 1962 and was drafted by the Chicago Cubs.

As a student, Valesente earned a bachelor of science and a master's degree in physical education. In 1971, Ithaca honored Valesente by inducting him into the college's Hall of Fame.

He began his collegiate coaching career in 1964 as defensive coordinator of the freshman team at Cornell University. In 1969, he was promoted to the varsity and coached the secondary until 1974. Valesente went on to coach the secondary at Cincinnati and Arizona, then moved to Mississippi State where he was defensive coordinator and linebacker coach.

He progressed to the pro ranks, coaching the Baltimore Colts' secondary before returning to the collegiate ranks in 1984 as assistant head coach at Kansas. In 1986, he was named head coach of the Jayhawks, and remained there two years before moving to Maryland, where he was offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach.

Coaching Experience: High School — Ithaca High School, 1962, running backs and defensive backs. College — Cornell, 1964-68, freshman defensive coordinator, 1969-74, secondary; Cincinnati, 1974-76, secondary; Arizona, 1977-79, secondary; Mississippi State, 1980-81, defensive coordinator and linebackers; Kansas, 1984-85, assistant head coach and quarterbacks, 1986-87, head coach; Maryland, 1988, offensive coordinator and quarterbacks; Pittsburgh, 1989, assistant head coach and defensive coordinator. Professional — Baltimore Colts, 1982-83, secondary coach.

Personal: Born: 7/19/40. Hometown: Seneca Falls, NY. Alma Mater: Ithaca College B.S. '62 and M.S. '65. Married to the former Joan Heywood and the father of Ginger (23), Bob (21), and Michelle (9).

Paul Hackett
Offensive Coordinator/
Quarterbacks

A brilliant teacher of the passing game, Paul Hackett joined the Pitt staff last spring.

Hackett played an instrumental role in coaching several championship teams, both professional and college, including a Super Bowl Champion, an NCAA National Champion, and four NFL Playoff squads.

Hackett spent eight years in the pro ranks, developing three outstanding quarterbacks: San Francisco's Joe Montana, Dallas's Danny White and Cleveland's Brian Sipe. He also coordinated offensive schemes around All-Pros Tony Dorsett, Herschel Walker, Jerry Rice, Roger Craig, Dwight Clark and Ozzie Newsome.

Hackett's initial NFL experience came as quarterbacks coach with the Browns in 1981 and 1982. He then spent the next three years coaching the passing game for San Francisco. The 49ers were 1983 NFC West Champions, 1984 Super Bowl XIX Champions, and 1985 NFL playoff participants.

Hackett then moved to Dallas, where he was pass coordinator from 1986-88.

He spent 11 years coaching college football. At USC he coached Vince Evans, the 1977 Rose Bowl MVP, and Paul McDonald, who set 17 USC, PAC 10 and NCAA records. The Trojans won a national championship (1979), three Rose Bowl games (1976, 1978 and 1979), and the Astro Bluebonnet Bowl in 1977 during Hackett's tenure.

At Cal-Berkley, he coached Steve Bartkowski, the NCAA's top passer in 1974. Hackett also developed the late Joe Roth, who led the PAC 8 in passing there, and helped direct the Bears to a conference co-championship in 1975.

A three-year starting quarterback at Cal-Davis, Hackett led the Far Western Conference in passing his senior year in 1969.

Coaching Experience: College — California-Davis, 1970-71, head freshman coach; California-Berkeley, 1972-75, quarterbacks; Southern California, 1976-80, quarterbacks, wide receivers, passing game; Pittsburgh, 1989, offensive coordinator and quarterbacks. Professional — Cleveland, 1981-82, quarterbacks; San Francisco 49ers, 1983-85, quarterbacks, wide receivers, passing game; Dallas, 1986-88, offensive pass coordinator, quarterbacks, wide receivers.

Personal: Born: 6/5/47. Hometown: Burlington, VT. Alma Mater: California-Davis '69. He and his wife Elizabeth have two sons: David (18) and Nathaniel (10).

Nick Rapone
Secondary

Nick Rapone joined the coaching staff last spring and is already familiar with the Pitt football program, having been a part-time assistant in 1979 and 1980.

Rapone, 33, had a brief stop at East Carolina last winter following six years (1983 thru 1988) as secondary coach at Temple, also serving the past two years there as defensive coordinator. During that time, four of his defensive backs played in the NFL. Kevin Ross is a starter at Kansas City, Todd Bowles is starting with the Washington Redskins, Terry White is with the Indianapolis Colts, and Anthony Young was a starter with the Indianapolis Colts until suffering a career-ending spinal injury.

While at Temple, Rapone took advantage of the nearby Baltimore Colts. He used to drive down to Baltimore from the Philadelphia campus to talk shop with former Colts assistant Bob Valesente. Now the two discuss defensive schemes together for the Panthers.

Rapone was the defensive backfield coach and recruiting director at East Tennessee State in 1981 and 1982.

At Pitt he primarily coached the junior varsity squad, and assisted with the varsity secondary and scouting responsibilities.

A graduate of Virginia Tech, Rapone played four years in the secondary. He was an All-State wide receiver at New Castle High School.

Coaching Experience: College — Pittsburgh, 1979-80, junior varsity and secondary; East Tennessee State, 1981-82, defensive backfield and recruiting director; Temple, 1983-86, secondary, 1987-88, defensive coordinator and secondary; Pittsburgh, 1989, secondary.

Personal: Born: 4/25/56. Hometown: New Castle, PA. Alma Mater: Virginia Tech '78. Married to the former Mary Daly and the father of Nick (7), Johanna (6), and Katie (3).

Tommie Liggins
Tight Ends

In his fourth season as a Pitt assistant, Tommie Liggins accepts a new challenge as tight ends coach after working with the running backs the last three years.

Liggins rushed for more than 3,500 yards at Ross High School, where he was an All-State performer in football and a sprint and shot put specialist on the track team. He then enrolled at the University of Cincinnati, where he was a running back from 1972 through 1975. His last season there was Mike Gottfried's first as running back coach.

Liggins worked as a graduate assistant at Cincinnati in 1976 then moved with Gottfried to Arizona in 1977, where Liggins was strength coach and Gottfried coached the running backs. They came to Pitt in 1986 after stops at Murray State, Cincinnati and Kansas.

Over the past six years, Liggins had helped develop three players currently in the NFL. Former Kansas running back Robert Mimbs is with the Phoenix Cardinals and former Panthers Tom Brown and Craig "Ironhead" Heyward are with the Miami Dolphins and the New Orleans Saints, respectively.

Coaching Experience: College — Cincinnati, 1976, graduate assistant, 1980-82, running backs; Arizona, 1977, strength and conditioning; Murray State, 1978-80, running backs; Kansas, 1982-85, running backs; Pittsburgh, 1986, running backs, 1987-88, run coordinator and running backs.

Personal Information: Born: 11/1/52. Hometown: Fremont, OH. Alma Mater: Cincinnati '76. Married to the former Brenda Thompson and the father of Shannon (12), Shellie (8) and Cory (1).

Bill Meyers
Offensive Line

Bill Meyers joined the Pitt staff three years ago and in that time has developed several NFL draft selections, continuing the outstanding tradition of Pitt's offensive line.

Last year, two of his linemen were drafted into the NFL. Consensus All-America guard and Outland Trophy finalist Mark Stepnoski was selected in the third round by the Dallas Cowboys. Tackle Tom Ricketts, chosen in the first round by the Pittsburgh Steelers, was the 24th pick overall.

Additional prominent linemen Meyers has coached throughout his career are All-Pro centers Mike Webster (Pittsburgh Steelers) and Larry McCarren (Green Bay Packers), Notre Dame's Tom Thayer (Chicago Bears), and Missouri All-American John Clay (San Diego Chargers).

After high school Meyers served three years in the Marine Corps. He then enrolled at Stanford University, where he started at tackle on consecutive PAC-8 championship teams, and on two Rose Bowl squads.

He began his coaching career at Santa Clara in 1974 as defensive coordinator. Three years later he moved to the offensive line, at California-Berkeley (1977 and 1978) and Notre Dame (1979 through 1981). Meyers was the assistant head coach and offensive coordinator at Missouri for two years before coming to Pitt.

His professional experience includes coaching the offensive line for Bart Starr's Green Bay Packers in 1982 and 1983, and for the AFC Central Division Champion Pittsburgh Steelers in 1984.

Coaching Experience: College — Santa Clara, 1974-76, defensive coordinator; California-Berkeley, 1977-78, offensive line; Notre Dame, 1979-81, offensive line; Missouri, 1985-86, assistant head coach and offensive coordinator; Pittsburgh, 1987, offensive line.

Professional — Green Bay Packers, 1982-83, offensive line; Pittsburgh Steelers, 1984, offensive line.

Personal Information: Born: 10/8/46. Hometown: Long Beach, CA. Alma Mater: Stanford '72. Married to the former Cathie LeBaron and the father of Charlie (17) and Michelle (13).

Larry Kirksey
Running Backs

A veteran running backs coach with 15 years experience, Larry Kirksey joined Mike Gottfried's staff last spring following a five-year stint at the University of Florida, where he helped develop three NFL first-round draft selections, plus current Gator star Emmitt Smith.

Kirksey's former players now in the NFL are George Adams (New York Giants), Lorenzo Hampton (Miami Dolphins), Neal Anderson (Chicago Bears), and John L. Williams (Seattle Seahawks). When Anderson and Williams were drafted in 1986, it marked the first time in 15 years two running backs from the same collegiate team were first-round draft selections.

Smith was a preseason All-American and Heisman Trophy candidate in 1988 under Kirksey. Though hampered late in the season by an injury, Smith was still selected first-team All-SEC after rushing for 988 yards in eight games.

The 38-year-old Kentucky native was the head coach at Kentucky State University in 1983. Prior to that he was the receivers and tight ends coach at Kansas in 1982, and held the same position at Kentucky.

His coaching career began in 1974 at the University of Miami of Ohio, where he was responsible for the wide receivers, tight ends and quarterbacks until 1976.

Kirksey was a three-year starting wide receiver at Eastern Kentucky.

Coaching Experience: College — Miami of Ohio, 1974-76, wide receivers/tight ends/quarterbacks; Kentucky, 1977-81, wide receivers and tight ends; Kansas, 1982, wide receivers and tight ends; Kentucky State, 1983, head coach; Florida, 1984-88, running backs; Pittsburgh, 1989, running backs.

Personal: Born: 1/6/51. Hometown: Harlan, KY. Alma Mater: Eastern Kentucky '73. Married to the former Anita L. Combs and the father of Jessica (7) and Jared (4).

Frank D'Alonzo
Defensive Line

Frank D'Alonzo begins his fourth season coaching the defensive line at Pitt.

Last spring his standout end, Burt Grossman, was the first defensive lineman picked and the eighth overall player drafted in the NFL draft by the San Diego Chargers.

D'Alonzo was a three-year letterman at Villanova, graduating in 1979, and was the recipient of a National Football Foundation Hall of Fame Scholarship at West Orange High School.

He entered the coaching profession at Mount Olive High School in his native New Jersey and was a defensive coordinator there for two years, before taking a similar job at Roxbury High School.

D'Alonzo coached the offensive line at Oklahoma State in 1983, then moved to Iowa State, where for two seasons he was the defensive ends coach.

In 1986, D'Alonzo joined the Pitt coaching staff as the defensive ends coach. His responsibilities were expanded in 1987 to include the entire defensive line.

Football is important to the D'Alonzo family. His father, Frank, was coach and athletic director at West Orange (NJ) Mountain High School, and his uncle, Pete, played from 1958-61 with the Detroit Lions.

Coaching Information: High School — Mt. Olive (NJ), 1979-80, defensive coordinator; Roxbury, (NJ) 1981-82, defensive coordinator. College — Iowa State, 1982, graduate assistant, 1984-85, defensive ends; Oklahoma State, 1983, offensive line; Pittsburgh, 1986, defensive ends, 1987, defensive line.

Personal Information: Born: 7/9/57. Hometown: West Orange, NJ. Alma Mater: Villanova '79. D'Alonzo is single.

Sal Sunseri
Linebackers

Sal Sunseri begins his fifth season on the Pitt coaching staff after an All-America career as a Panther linebacker.

Sunseri played on some of the greatest defenses in college football history at Pitt, including the top-ranked unit in the nation in 1981. Prior to that, he teamed with Dan Marino at nearby Central Catholic High School.

He was known as an emotional player, a sparkplug for players and fans alike, and has instilled the same aggressiveness in his linebackers.

The four years that Sal Sunseri spent wearing number 66 for the Blue and Gold were some of the most impressive in Pitt history. The teams accumulated a 41-7 record, including victories in three of four bowl games. Three consecutive years they finished with an 11-1 record. In those years, the defense, led by Sunseri, Hugh Green, et al., allowed 11 points a game.

Sunseri has spent his entire life, including his professional career, in Pittsburgh. The Steelers drafted him in 1982, but a training camp injury ended his career.

He returned to Pitt as a volunteer assistant and became Foge Fazio's defensive line coach in 1985. That year, Pitt placed in the top 10 in the nation in rushing defense. Sunseri became linebacker coach in 1986.

Coaching Experience: College — University of Pittsburgh, 1984, graduate assistant, 1985, defensive line coach, 1986, linebacker coach.

Personal Information: Born: 8/1/59. Hometown: Pittsburgh, PA. Alma Mater: Pitt '82. Married to the former Roxann Evans, who was a varsity gymnast at Pitt, and the father of Jaclyn Elizabeth (2) and Santino Michael (6 months).

Scott O'Brien
Special Teams

Scott O'Brien begins his third season as the special teams coach. This year he will also work with the weakside linebackers.

O'Brien played college football at his hometown school, Wisconsin-Superior. He was signed by the Green Bay Packers in 1979 and the Toronto Argonauts in 1980.

His three previous coaching assignments involved linebackers and special teams: Wisconsin-Superior from 1980 to 1982, University of Nevada-Las Vegas from 1983 to 1985, and Rice in 1986.

While at UNLV, O'Brien earned his master's degree in education. His wife, Shawn, is close to completing her Ph.D. in psychology at Pitt.

"Special teams should win close games," O'Brien said. "We call special teams the 'No Second-Chance Team.' On offense, if you throw an incomplete pass, you can come back and try it again. When you give up a first down on defense, you start over. With special teams, you don't get a second chance. There must be total execution and concentration every time."

Coaching Experience: College — Wisconsin-Superior, 1980-82, linebackers and special teams; Nevada-Las Vegas, 1983-85, outside linebackers and special teams; Rice, 1986, outside linebackers and special teams; Pittsburgh, 1987, special teams.

Personal Information: Born: 6/25/57. Hometown: Superior, WI. Alma Mater: Wisconsin-Superior '79. M.A. in Education, UNLV '84. Married to the former Shawn Kinney.

Alex Kramer
Administrative Assistant

Alex Kramer begins his 11th year as an administrative assistant to the Pitt football program, but his ties to the university go back long before that. He was the Panthers' student football manager from 1948-51, rooming with Pro Football Hall of Famer Joe Schmidt.

After graduating from Pitt, Kramer worked for the Moon Area School District. He left his position as director of curriculum to return to Pitt in 1978.

Kramer's assignments include making the team's travel arrangements, serving as liaison with other offices and departments within the university, and expanding the services that Pitt football players provide to the community.

He is active in nearly every athletic department function, and his love for Pitt football is evidenced by his office walls, which look like a scrapbook of "Who's Who in Pitt Football."

Kramer, an avid historian, is a living library of Pitt's football tradition.

Personal Information: Born: 7/28/29. Hometown: Pittsburgh, PA. Alma Mater: Pitt '52, M.A. Pitt '61. Married to the former Betty McCormick and the father of Charles (31) and Michele (27).

Bud Ratliff
Recruiting Coordinator

Allen R. "Bud" Ratliff is in his fourth season as Pitt's recruiting coordinator, and in that time, the Panthers have assembled what are considered to be three straight Top 15 recruiting classes. Ratliff, in turn, is considered one of the best recruiting coordinators in the country.

He has worked with Mike Gottfried since 1984, when he became recruiting coordinator at Kansas. But their association dates back to their days at Crestline (OH) High School. Ratliff was the center, Gottfried the quarterback.

Although Ratliff's job is now primarily off the field, he does have coaching experience.

He worked at Morehead State for one season after graduation in 1972, then was an assistant coach at Struthers (OH) High School, while Gottfried was the head coach.

He then moved to Youngstown State as offensive line coach and was a head coach at South Central, Indian Lake, and Bucyrus High Schools in Ohio before moving to Kansas.

Personal Information: Born: 1/23/45. Hometown: Crestline, OH. Alma Mater: Morehead State '72. Married to the former Barbara DeRodes and the father of Rob (22) and Becci (19).

Charles "Buddy" Morris
Strength Coordinator

Buddy Morris is beginning his 10th season at Pitt, helping to organize and operate one of the most successful collegiate weight rooms in the country: The Pitt Iron Works, which is busy every day of the year.

Morris recognizes the importance of physical conditioning. His philosophy is that "weight training helps keep players free from injury."

Morris is, in part, responsible for the physical development of NFL stars Bill Fralic, Jimbo Covert, Russ Grimm, Jim Sweeney and Dan Marino, among others. Pitt's 1989 NFL draft choices Burt Grossman, Tom Ricketts, and Mark Stepnoski credit Morris for a part of their success. Many still return to work out at Pitt in the off-season.

A graduate of South Park High School, Morris attended Indiana State for one year before transferring to Pitt. He ran track for the Panthers and was a letterman from 1977-80.

A devoted weightlifter, Morris won the 1989 Three Rivers Bodybuilding Championship.

Personal Information: Born: 9/29/57. Hometown: Pittsburgh, PA. Alma Mater: Pitt '80. Married to former Pitt high jumper Karen Krichko and the father of Kara Leigh.

Graduate Assistant Coaches

Frank Cignetti, Jr.

Frank Cignetti, Jr., starts his first season with the Pitt staff as a graduate assistant for linebackers coach Sal Sunseri.

Cignetti, a starting defensive back at Indiana University of Pennsylvania, earned All-Conference honors and contributed to the first conference championship title in the school's history in 1986. He joined the Indian coaching staff in the fall of 1988 as a student assistant for wide receivers.

Cignetti enjoys strong family ties in football — his father Frank Sr., was an assistant coach at Pitt from 1965 through 1968, and his brother Curt was a graduate assistant at Pitt in 1982 and 1983. His father is currently the head football coach and athletic director at IUP. Curt is presently quarterback coach at Temple University.

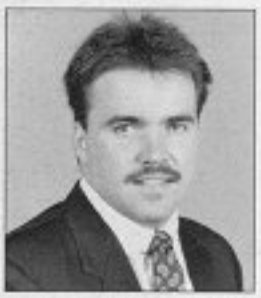
A 1989 graduate of IUP, Cignetti received a bachelor of science degree in sociology.

Frank Gansz, Jr.

Frank Gansz, Jr., is in his second year at Pitt, working primarily with the offensive line. He has been involved with football most of his life. His father, Frank Gansz, Sr., is the special teams coach with the Detroit Lions.

After an outstanding career at Sycamore High School in Cincinnati, Gansz attended The Citadel, where he lettered at defensive back for two seasons. He graduated in 1985 with a bachelor's degree in history.

Following graduation, Gansz had the opportunity to work at the Kansas City Chiefs' training camp, where he learned from such standout performers as Carlos Carson and Stephone Paige. He was a graduate assistant at Kansas in 1987.



Michael McCarthy

Michael McCarthy joined the University of Pittsburgh staff in June of 1989 as a volunteer coach under offensive coordinator Paul Hackett.

McCarthy, originally from Greenfield, earned a bachelor of science degree in business administration at Baker University in Kansas and a master's degree in sports management at Fort Hayes State University.

McCarthy served two years on the Fort Hayes staff in 1987 and 1988, coaching the defensive ends.

As the starting tight end at Baker University, McCarthy was a member of the NAIA National Champion runner-up team in 1987.

McCarthy is a 1981 graduate of Bishop Boyle High School.

Thomas McConkey

Thomas McConkey is in his first year at Pitt and will assist Bill Meyers coaching the offensive line.

McConkey learned his position as starting offensive lineman at Marshall University in West Virginia, where he lettered four years.

After graduation, McConkey combined his education and football experience, teaching high school English and working as a graduate assistant on the Marshall staff in 1986.

McConkey coached for two years at the University of Maryland, and worked last season with Bob Valesente, Pitt's current assistant head coach, on the Terrapins staff.

He is originally from Wheeling, West Virginia.

Willie "Skip" Peete III

Skip Peete came to Pittsburgh in April of 1988 to rejoin Mike Gottfried, his former head coach at Kansas. Peete works with the wide receivers — a position at which he earned All-Big 8 honors in 1984.

Peete, a native of Tucson, won two letters at the University of Arizona before he transferred to Kansas. He spent the 1988 football season on the New York Jets' injured reserve list.

Football is a way of life in the Peete family. His father, Willie Jr., is the running back coach with the Green Bay Packers. His younger brother, Rodney, former standout quarterback at Southern Cal, was drafted by the Detroit Lions.

John Stone

John Stone joins the Pitt staff this year as a graduate assistant. He will work with Alex Kramer in handling administrative duties for Panther football.

Stone is not a newcomer to Mike Gottfried's staff, after working three years as a student manager.

He excelled in the classroom, receiving a bachelor of arts degree in business and economics last spring, and was a member of Alpha Kappa Psi business fraternity. Stone was the 1988 recipient of the George Carson Award for his outstanding contribution to the athletic department and achievement in the classroom.

Stone will begin his MBA studies in the Pitt business program this fall.

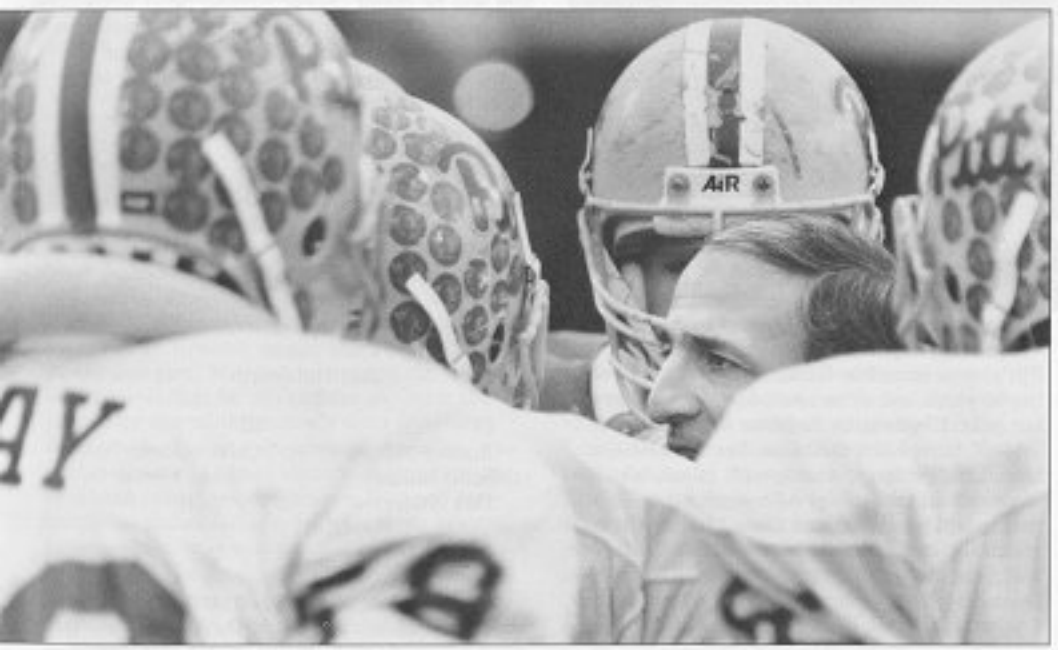
1989 Outlook



Head Coach Mike Gottfried's fourth Pitt team will enter the 100th football season in Pitt history armed with a reconfigured coaching staff, a new talent influx to fill some personnel needs, and a strong returning cast of seasoned talent.

"This team, on paper, has some pretty interesting potential," Gottfried says. "There is some exceptional talent on both sides of the ball, we've improved our team speed, and we have pretty good depth in some areas.

"We're still going to be young. Sixty-six of our players going into camp are either freshmen or sophomores (30 freshmen, including 14 redshirts, and 36 sophomores), but some of the young players have already gotten some valuable experience, and many of our juniors and seniors have been playing regularly for the past several years.

"Our schedule will test us often. We'll be facing last year's top three teams (Notre Dame, Miami, and West Virginia), along with Penn State, Syracuse, and some other good football teams."

To assist him with the fine tuning of the 1989 Panthers, Gottfried has redesigned his coaching staff. The new offensive coordinator is Paul Hackett, formerly the offensive coordinator at USC whose pro coaching credits include stints with the Cleveland Browns, San Francisco 49ers, and Dallas Cowboys. Bob Valesente, the former head coach at Kansas, is the new assistant head coach/defensive coordinator. Larry Kirksey, the former running backs coach at Florida, will handle the same duties at Pitt (with former Panther run coordinator Tommie Liggins now handling the tight ends). Former Temple Defensive Coordinator Nick Rapone will handle the secondary, and Skip Peete, who played for Gottfried at Kansas, will coach the wide receivers.

"Our defensive philosophy will remain the same," Gottfried says. "Bob Valesente is well versed in the 4-3; he has coached it at Mississippi State and with the Baltimore Colts. "There may be a few more adjustments on offense, but many of them will be subtle."

Expectations are high for another superior defense. Pitt has ranked as one of the NCAA's Top 10 defensive teams in 8 of the past 10 years, inluding the past three in a row; the Panthers have ranked fourth in total defense two consecutive seasons.

And with seven returning starters on defense (including tackle Tony Siragusa, a starter in 1986 and 1987), along with some impressive newcomers, the pieces may be in place for a dominating defense.

The offense, with seven returning starters, may take a little longer to find its legs. But with a deep stable of running backs, another crack offensive line, and some quality receivers, the offense should click if redshirt freshman quarterback Alex Van Pelt fulfills the promise he displayed in the spring.

Pitt is scheduled to close its 100th football season on December 2 in Dublin, Ireland, when the Panthers will meet Rutgers in the second Emerald Isle Classic.

But this is a team that expects to extend its season one game beyond that.

Offense

Wide Receiver

SE	FL
Henry Tuten	Reggie Williams
Chris Bouyer	Hosea Heard
Baron Jackson	Jay Murray
Eric Mathieson	Rich Kautter
Toby Bonitz	Olanda Truitt
Brian Hauser	Warren Ware
Bobby Boykin
Junior Green

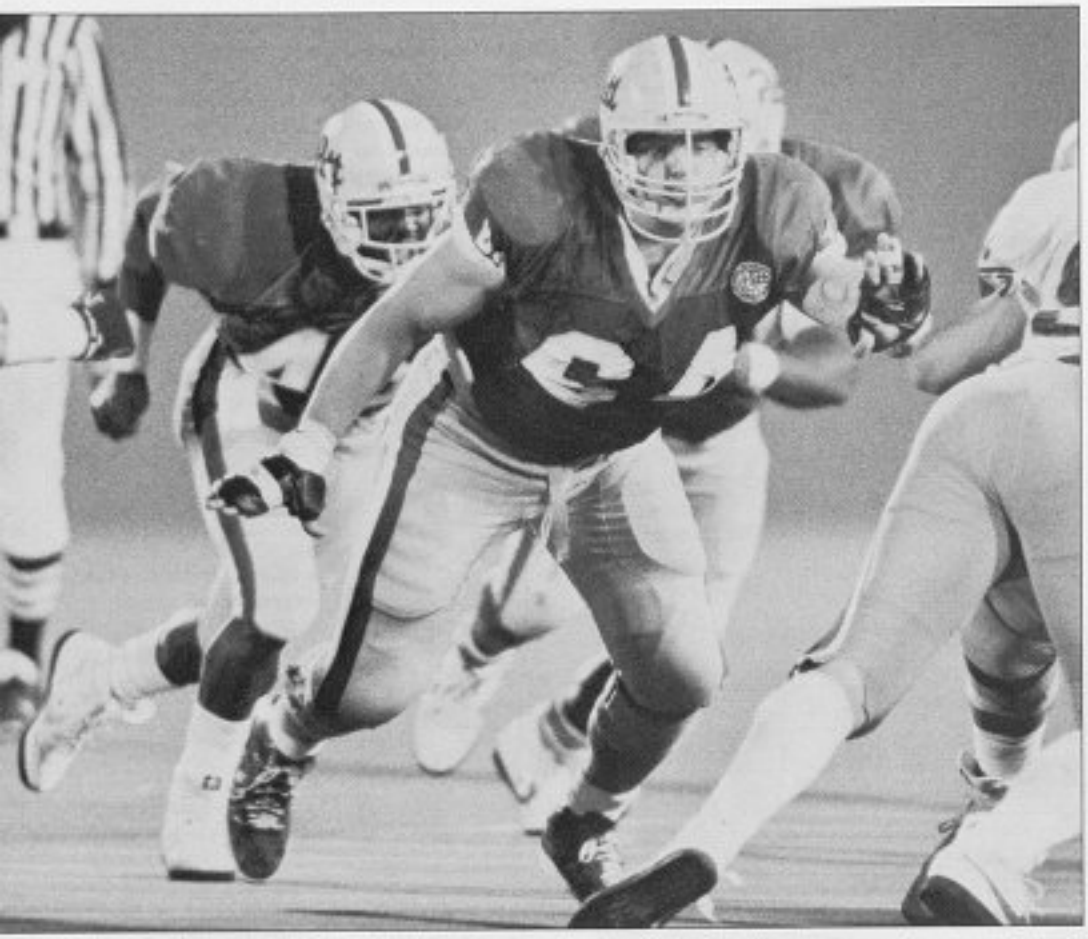
With four of its top five receivers back, including clutch senior starters Henry Tuten at split end and Reggie Williams at flanker, this should be a solid position for Pitt all year. Tuten turned a team-high 37 receptions into 571 yards and three touchdowns last year. Williams, who had 21 catches for 357 yards (17.0 avg.) in 1988, will continue his climb on Pitt's all-time career receiving lists. Entering the season, he ranks 11th with 78 career receptions, and 8th with 1,256 yards. Supporting this reliable tandem is a talented group that includes junior Hosea Heard, a deep threat whose six receptions as a sophomore in 1986 yielded four touchdowns; smooth sophomores Baron Jackson and Chris Bouyer, who both saw action last year; senior Rich Kautter and sophomore Jay Murray, who both played well in the spring; and a quartet of freshman recruits led by Olanda Truitt.

Tight End

Eric Seaman
Tom Huebner
Lionel Sykes
Bill Turkowski
Rich Reschoff
Dean ElAttrache

Pitt's tight ends have been used primarily for blocking the past several years. That will change this season. The departure of Vernon Kirk, a seventh-round draft pick by the Los Angeles

Outlook (cont.)



Rams, opens the door for three other players—all of whom should see extensive action. Sophomore Eric Seaman, who played impressively and started six games as a freshman in 1987, sat out last season after being tried on the defensive line. He's back at tight end, and will battle for the starting position. Another returnee is senior Tom Huebner, a steady, solid veteran who is also the long-snapper on special teams. Junior transfer Lionel Sykes, with express speed and great receiving skills, is an exciting prospect. A pair of former quarterbacks, Bill Turkowski and Dean ElAttrache, will provide depth at the position.

Fullback

Ronald Redmon
Derrick Lewis
Dave Moore
Danny Boyd
Jimmer Bundy
Shaon Berry
Robert McKinley
Carl Hagins

For the past several years Pitt's fullback position has been mainly manned by temporarily converted defensive backs and linebackers. Junior free safety Louis Riddick and junior linebacker Prentiss Wright filled in admirably at fullback as freshmen in 1987 before returning to their natural positions last year. In 1988, strong safety Dan Crossman moved to fullback and was a starter there the entire season. Crossman has returned to the secondary, which will create more playing time—and a possible starting berth—for steady sophomore Ronald Redmon. Perhaps Pitt's most complete fullback, Redmon rushed for 96 yards and three touchdowns on 30 carries last year. Challenging Redmon for the starting job will be redshirt freshman Derrick Lewis, a tantalizing prospect, oozing with talent, who impressed in the spring. Also expected to contribute will be sophomore Dave Moore, a converted tight end who saw some action in the backfield last year, and junior college transfer Danny Boyd, a former Parade All-American. Freshman Jimmer Bundy could make an impact.

Tailback

Curvin Richards
Adam Walker
Ricky Turner
Glenn Deveaux
Jermaine Williams
Kevin Williams
Harold Webb
Marc Williams

There is no shortage of talent at this position. Last year Adam Walker, then a junior, opened the season by rushing for 327 yards and five touchdowns in Pitt's first two games. When Walker was slowed by injuries, explosive freshman Curvin Richards replaced him in the starting lineup and proceeded to rush for a season total of 1,228 yards—the seventh-highest total by a freshman in NCAA history. Stylish sohomore Ricky Turner is waiting in the wings, and should receive some opportunities to display his considerable skills. Sophomore Glenn Deveaux, like Turner, saw spot duty last year and could further add to some great depth at this position. Jermaine Williams and Kevin Williams (no relation) are a pair of freshmen who will vie for playing time.

Quarterback

Alex Van Pelt
Scott Stark
Kieran Scanlon
Gary Clayton
Mike Heberle
Terry Feeney
Matt Getty

On paper, going into the season, this is clearly the biggest question mark on the team. The loss of starter Darnell Dickerson (academic suspension) and No. 1 backup Larry Wanke (who transferred to John Carroll) left Pitt with virtually no experienced players at the position. Redshirt freshman Alex Van Pelt, a smooth, efficient passer who had solidly emerged as Dickerson's backup during spring practice, will now be the No. 1 quarterback entering fall camp. Behind him will be junior college transfer Scott Stark, who played briefly at Stanford before moving to Glendale Community College; senior Kieran Scanlon, a former walk on; and freshman candidates Mike Heberle and Gary Clayton.

Long a source of pride and strength at Pitt, it should be business as usual on the offensive line this year. Senior Roman Matusz, a two-year starter at right tackle, has moved to the left side to replace Tom Ricketts, the Pittsburgh Steelers' 1989 first- round draft choice. Like Matusz, senior left guard Chris Goetz is another returning starter whose ability to dominate may be noticed more this year. Returning for his second season at center is senior preseason All-American Dean Caliguire, a former All-East guard who is probably the best athlete on the line. Things aren't quite as settled on the right side, where 1988 Outland Trophy finalist Mark Stepnoski must be replaced. That assignment could go to senior Bill Cherpak, if he fully recovers from a spring neck injury; redshirt freshman Mike LiVorio, a splendid talent with a bright future; or sophomore Dave Dixon, who gained some valuable experience in a relief role last year. The right tackle slot vacated by Matusz will most likely be inherited by redshirt freshman Calvert Jones. Key reserves will include sophomore center Chris Sestili, junior tackle Scott Miller, sophomore tackle Dan Anderson, and sophomore guard Tony Delazio.

Defense

End

LE	RE
Carnel Smith	Mark Gunn
Todd Pipkin	Richard Allen
Keith Hamilton	Jim Royal
Bob Dunwiddie

The authoritative presence and multiple talents of both senior Carnel Smith, a returning starter at left end, and promising sophomore Richard Allen, provide a good starting point for success. Both Smith, who is being counted on to provide leadership, and Allen can play inside as well. Junior college transfer Mark Gunn's emergence as a dominating pass rusher in the spring should help ease the loss of Burt Grossman, the number-one draft choice of the San Diego Chargers. Sophomore Todd Pipkin, who missed last season with a broken leg, could be a factor. And big things are expected—perhaps immediately—of Parade All-American Keith Hamilton, another dynamic pass rusher.

Tackle

LT	RT
Marc Spindler	Tom Sims
Jeff Esters	Tony Siragusa
Jake Bleacher	Mike Kelly
Jon Baker	John Skiba

If they stay healthy, there may be no better group of defensive tackles in the country than Marc Spindler, Tom Sims, Tony Siragusa, and Jeff Esters. Siragusa, a senior who sat out last season after undergoing reconstructive knee surgery, has an enviable combination of quickness, power and guts. His performance in the spring raised hopes that he can reclaim the form that made him one of the nation's most promising defensive tackles as a sophomore. Spindler, who is also coming off knee surgery, is simply a one-of-a-kind talent; his competitive fury and contempt for failure, in concert with some immense athletic skills, may make him a player for the ages. Sims, Pitt's top returning tackler (78), evolved into a rugged force last year, his first with the Panthers after transferring from Western Michigan. He led the team in sacks (8½), and was the most consistent performer on the line. Esters was asked to contribute as a freshman last year, starting two games and playing in nine altogether, and he delivered.

Linebacker

WLB	SLB
Ricardo McDonald	Curtis Bray
Prentiss Wright	Ken Radinick
Heath Snell	Mike Boykin
Shawn Abinet	Mark Altsman

MLB
Nelson Walker
Craig Gob
Mark Shemanski

Terrance Wheatley
Marc Mandel

Returning sophomore starters Ricardo McDonald and Curtis Bray are a year older, a year wiser, and a year closer to their possible destiny as future bookend All-Americans. McDonald, at weakside linebacker, and Bray, at strongside, will again conduct a weekly reign of terror. Kamikaze pass rusher Prentiss Wright will see plenty of action, and reserves Ken Radinick, Mike Boykin, Heath Snell, and Shawn Abinet will provide capable depth at the two outside spots. Replacing All-American Jerry Olsavsky in the middle will be a pair of juniors: Nelson Walker, a double-quick converted defensive end, and Craig Gob, a special teams ace who has backed up Olsavsky for the past two seasons.

Secondary

LCB	RCB
Alonzo Hampton	Steve Israel

Vernon Lewis	Mark McMillian
	Ken Abrams

SS	FS
Dan Crossman	Louis Riddick
Robert Bradley	Doug Hetzler
Clifford Moncrief	Marcus Washington
Anthony Jagers	Donsville Savariau
	Steve Aungst

The defensive backfield is rich with talent and capably two-deep at every position. Senior All-American cornerback Alonzo Hampton, who led Pitt with five interceptions last year, is one of the top cover men in the country. Lightning bolt Steve Israel, a redshirt sophomore, and junior transfer Mark McMillian, are a pair of cornerbacks who will add great speed to the secondary. Sophomore Dave Coleman, impressive in the spring, also will challenge for a starting berth and see plenty of action. Multi-talented junior Louis Riddick, destined for greatness, moves from strong safety to free safety, where he will be backed up by junior Doug Hetzler. Senior Dan Crossman, last year's starting fullback, returns to the secondary and will start at strong safety. Senior Robert Bradley, a former cornerback, and junior Marcus Washington, will provide safety depth and see action in nickel and other special coverage alignments.

Special Teams

K	P
Scott Kaplan/	Brian Greenfield
Jeff VanHorne	Scott Stark
Ed Frazier

Senior Jeff VanHorne, who was Pitt's No. 1 placekicker in 1986, 1987, and at the beginning of the 1988 season, and sophomore Scott Kaplan, who took over the No. 1 job last season, will contend for the starting job in training camp. Junior transfer Brian Greenfield was the top junior college punter in the country last year, and should significantly strengthen a problem area. Alonzo Hampton, who ranked 14th in tha nation in punt returns last year, and Henry Tuten will be the return men on punts; Steve Israel, Glenn Deveaux, and Curvin Richards are the top candidates for kickoff returns. Tom Huebner will be the long snapper, backed up by Jim Royal. Doug Hetzler will hold on snaps, backed up by Alex Van Pelt. Craig Gob, Eric Holzworth, Ronald Redmon, Robert Bradley, and Mark Altsman are among the players who excel on special teams coverage.

27 Curvin Richards*

SO TB/5-10/195 LaPorte, TX

After beginning his college career last year as a back-up tailback who was hoping merely to see a little action, Richards wound up becoming only the second Pitt freshman, along with Tony Dorsett, ever to rush for more than 1,000 yards... Swervin' Curvin's season total of 1,228 yards rushing was the seventh-highest freshman figure in NCAA history, in the process becoming the 24th freshman ever to top the 1,000-yard mark...the Trinidad native was the only freshman tailback listed among the nation's top 50 rushers last year...selected preseason All-American and All-East by Street and Smith's...rated the No. 4 Heisman Trophy candidate in Football Action's preseason publication...ranked the nation's 10th best halfback and second-team All-Independent by The Sporting News...selected first-team All-Independent by Don Heinrich's College Football magazine...rushed for 1,228 yards and eight touchdowns on 207 carries last year, a 5.9-yard per carry average...ranked 11th in the NCAA final stats with a 111.6-yards per game average...after seeing spot duty in the first three games of the season, he replaced an injured Adam Walker early in the Boston College game, and started the final seven games of the year...rushed for 202 yards and two touchdowns against BC, including an 83-yard TD romp—the fifth-longest rushing touchdown in Pitt history...his season-high of 207 yards came against Navy on only 17 carries...also rushed for 202 yards against Rutgers, thus joining Tony Dorsett as the only two Pitt freshmen to rush for more than 200 yards in three games...Richards became the sixth Pitt running back to top the 1,000-yard rushing mark in a season, and his 1,228 yards rank fifth on Pitt's all-time single-season rushing list...an inventive runner with a diverse package of skills...runs a 10.7 100 meters...like a baseball pitcher, can mix sudden bursts of speed with a deceptive change of pace...has terrific balance, powerful legs, and a fair share of guile..."He has great legs, great strength in his legs, and great body lean," says running backs coach Larry Kirksey. "It's important for a running back to have all of those qualities. It makes him hard to knock off his feet. I think right now, he has more quickness than Emmitt Smith (Kirksey coached Smith at Florida the past two seasons), and he really understands the total concept."..."I don't see myself as a fast back," Curvin says, "and I'm not a back who can run over anybody. What I try to do is set someone up to think I'm going one way, and then head the other way."...attended LaPorte High School and played football for Coach Forrest Wiegand...became LaPorte's all-time leading rusher with 3,745 yards...a Tom Lemming's All-American...was an All-Greater Houston Class 5A selection and chosen for the Houston Chronicle's Nifty 50...All-State as a senior, and honorable mention All-State as a freshman...rushed for 1,577 yards as a sophomore, 1,106 yards and 11 touchdowns as a junior, and 811 yards as a senior...in his senior season, LaPorte switched from an I-formation to the wishbone, which reduced his total number of carries..."He's exactly what you're looking for in an I-back," LaPorte coach Forrest Wiegand said. "Lots of times he would go to the called hole, find nothing there, and be able to slide down the line and find a crack. What sticks out in my mind is that he could go through the hole sideways as fast as he could forward."... Pitt Head Coach Mike Gottfried amplifies that comment: "Curvin has the ability to make himself very small in a hole."...played centerfield on LaPorte's baseball team, and was All-District four times...batted .429 as a senior... a native of Laventille Village in Trinidad, Richard's family also resided in St. Croix in the Bahamas before moving to Texas when he was nine...although his father and brothers all played soccer in Trinidad, Curvin had no interest in the sport because "there was too much running," he said...in the U.S. he learned football from a native Jamaican, Donovan Forbes, who is now a University of Texas quarterback...Forbes convinced Richards to join a midget league team, the Dirty Dobbers... was recruited by Pitt's Scott O'Brien ...has two brothers and four sisters

...Curvin S. Richards, born 12/26/68, is the son of Pearl Richards and the late Kelvin John Richards.

Coach Larry Kirksey: "Curvin is the type of player, that whenever he touches the ball, the crowd is going to ooh and aah, because you never know when he is going to make something happen. He's a threat to go all the way every time he touches the ball. He also plays the game the way it is meant to be played, and that is very physical."

Pitt's Retired Jerseys

In the 99 years of Pitt football there have been many great players perform in a Panther uniform. However, only four Panthers have had the distinction of having their jerseys retired and enshrined in the Pitt locker room as daily reminders of their successful Pitt careers: Tony Dorsett, No. 33; Bill Fralic, No. 79; Hugh Green, No. 99; and Dan Marino, No. 13.

Tony Dorsett not only became Pitt's leading all-time rusher in his four-year career, he is college football's all-time rushing leader with 6,082 yards. Dorsett still holds 11 NCAA records. The brilliant running back capped his Pitt career by rushing for 2,150 yards, winning the Heisman Trophy, and leading Pitt to its ninth national championship during his senior season. He has enjoyed an equally successful pro career, first with the Dallas Cowboys and now with the Denver Broncos. Dorsett has amassed 12,739 yards in the NFL, placing him second on the all-time NFL rushing list behind Walter Payton. Dorsett's No. 33 jersey was the first retired by Pitt in 1976.

Fralic is regarded as one of Pitt's finest offensive linemen ever, high praise considering the Panthers' proud offensive line tradition. As a senior, he was a finalist for the Outland and Lombardi trophies as well as being a Heisman Trophy candidate. Fralic is one of only five freshmen in the last two decades to start his first collegiate game. Fralic's No. 79 jersey was retired in 1984.

Green was an intimidating defensive end, one of the greatest in college football history. He spearheaded Pitt's renowned defenses under Head Coach Jackie Sherrill. In his senior year in 1980, Green won the Lombardi Trophy, the Maxwell Trophy and was the first defensive player to win the Walter Camp Award since its inception in 1969. He also finished second in the Heisman Trophy balloting. Green's No. 99 jersey was retired in 1980.

Dan Marino remains the most prolific passer in Pitt football history. He still holds many offensive records including career all-purpose yards and total offense, and he is Pitt's career passing leader with 8,597 yards. As a junior, he had one of the most remarkable seasons any college quarterback has ever had. He completed 226 of 380 passes for 2,876 and an impressive 37 touchdowns. For the past six seasons Marino has been assaulting the NFL record books as an All-Pro quarterback for the Miami Dolphins. He now holds more than 17 NFL records, including most passing yards in a season (5,084). Marino's No. 13 jersey was retired in 1982.

Quarterback Darnell Dickerson scored on an 18-yard run to give the Panthers a 28-3 halftime lead, which they never relinquished.

After a scoreless third quarter, Dickerson ran nine yards for a touchdown early in the final period. Backup quarterback Larry Wanke added a 39-yard touchdown pass to Baron Jackson for Pitt's final score.

The Buckeyes closed the scoring on the ensuing kickoff when Carlos Snow returned a kickoff 100 yards for a touchdown in the final period.

Pitt dominated both offensively and defensively. The Panthers compiled 504 yards in total offense and allowed the Buckeyes just 233. For the second consecutive game Pitt did not commit a turnover, and Walker rushed over 100 yards for the second straight game.

The win vaulted Pitt to 16th place in the Associated Press Top 20.

GAME 3
WEST VIRGINIA 31
PITT 10

PITTSBURGH (September 24)— West Virginia used a big-play offense and stifling defense to hand Pitt its first loss of the season, 31-10, at Pitt.

Both teams entered the contest undefeated and averaging over 50 points per game. But the Pitt running game stalled, and the Panthers were victimized throughout the game by erratic punting and poor field position.

A partially blocked Jeff VanHorne punt, which traveled just 19 yards, helped set up the game's first score for West Virginia, giving the Mountaineers possession at their own 32-yard line. Quarterback Major Harris's 33-yard run set up a 33-yard touchdown pass from Harris to flanker Reggie Rembert for a 7-0 WVU lead.

On Pitt's ensuing possession, WVU cornerback Alvoid Mays intercepted quarterback Darnell Dickerson's pass to set up a 31-yard field goal by Charlie Baumann, extending WVU's lead to 10-0.

The Panthers sliced the lead when Henry Tuten made a leaping 23-yard touchdown catch from Dickerson. Safety Troy Washington intercepted a Harris pass at the Pitt 1-yard line late in the half to defuse an apparent touchdown drive.

West Virginia increased its lead to 17-7 when it capitalized on a Panther all-out blitz. The Mountaineers countered with a draw to A.B. Brown who exploded untouched through the middle for a 64-yard touchdown.

Pitt cut the lead to 17-10 late in the third quarter on a 34-yard field goal by freshman Scott Kaplan. But, the Mountaineers scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns to secure the win.

GAME 4
BOSTON COLLEGE 34
PITT 31

CHESTNUT HILL, MA (October 1)—Boston College rallied from a 31-19 deficit late in the fourth quarter by scoring twice in the final six minutes to defeat Pitt, 34-31, before a crowd of 32,000 at Alumni Stadium.

The Panthers controlled the tempo throughout most of the game and, when Darnell Dickerson scored on a 1-yard sneak with 8:42 remaining, the Panthers seemingly had an unsurmountable 31-19 lead. Two costly Pitt fumbles in the final six minutes allowed the Eagles to come back.

The loss marred a brilliant performance by freshman tailback Curvin Richards, who was pressed into action when starter Adam Walker twisted his right ankle on Pitt's second offensive play. Richards rushed for 202 yards, becoming the eighth Pitt player to top the 200-yard rushing mark. It also was the third-highest total ever by a Pitt freshman (Tony Dorsett rushed for 265 and 211 yards in 1973).

Richards also scored two touchdowns. His 83-yard run in the third period was the fifth-longest in Pitt history, but the 12 yarder in the first quarter was even more spectacular, featuring a 360-degree spin to elude several defenders on his way to the goal line.

Eagles quarterback Mike Power, however, threw touchdown passes of 23 and 8 yards—the latter just under the two-minute mark—to give BC a 32-31 lead. Fullback Ed Toner powered up the middle for the 2-point conversion and a 34-31 advantage.

Pitt attempted a comeback with 1:38 remaining but the drive stalled at the BC 42.

GAME 5
NOTRE DAME 30
PITT 20

PITTSBURGH (October 8)— Costly mistakes continued to plague Pitt as eventual-national champion Notre Dame parlayed three Pitt miscues and a relentless running game into a 30-20 victory over the Panthers before a rain-soaked, sellout crowd of 56,500 at Pitt Stadium.

The loss was Pitt's third straight, while the Irish remained undefeated and snapped a three-game losing streak against Pitt.

After taking the opening kickoff, Pitt marched in five plays to the Notre Dame 13-yard line, mostly on the passing of Panther quarterback Darnell Dickerson and the running of tailback Curvin Richards, who was making his first start. The drive was stopped when Richards, heading for the end zone, fumbled just shy of the goal line and Notre Dame nose tackle Chris Zordich recovered.

Two more Pitt miscues later in the game had significant impact on the game. The Panthers had an opportunity to take the lead late in the first half, but Dickerson, running in the clear to the end zone, fumbled at the one and Notre Dame recovered in the end zone. The half ended with the Irish leading, 17-14.

The Panthers battled once again. And, with the Irish leading 23-20 early in the fourth period, the Pitt defense forced Notre Dame to punt and the momentum appeared to shift back to the Panthers. But Pitt was penalized for too many men on the field, giving Notre Dame a first down at its own 47. The Irish responded with a 64-yard scoring drive that consumed over six minutes and clinched the victory.

GAME 6
PITT 42
TEMPLE 7

PITTSBURGH (October 15)—Led by sophomore quarterback Darnell Dickerson, Pitt produced one of its best offensive performances in school history and defeated Temple, 42-7, before a crowd of 32,822 at Pitt Stadium.

The Panthers set an all-time record for total offense, rushing for 279 yards and passing for 336 more for a total of 615 yards. The previous record of 610 was set in 1975 against Army.

The win not only snapped a three-game Pitt losing skid, but it also was Pitt's first victory against Temple in two years.

Dickerson was razor sharp all afternoon, completing 15 of 21 passes for 287 yards and one touchdown. He added a 45-yard touchdown run while avoiding an all-out Temple blitz.

Pitt took a 7-0 lead on its first possession when tight end Vernon Kirk took an option pitch from Dickerson around left end for a 1-yard touchdown. The Panthers never trailed in the game.

Freshman Curvin Richards turned in another solid performance, rushing for 135 yards on 25 carries and one touchdown.

Pitt scored 21 second-quarter points and led at the half, 28-0. Temple's only points of the game came in the third quarter — a 24-yard pass from quarterback Matt Baker to receiver Kevin McCoy. The Panthers added a touchdown in each the third and fourth quarters to close out the scoring.

GAME 7
PITT 52
NAVY 6

PITTSBURGH (October 22)— Playing in weather conditions more suitable for sailor than civilian, Pitt unleashed an explosive ground attack and dominated Navy, 52-6, before a rain-soaked Homecoming crowd of 34,230 at Pitt Stadium.

Freshman Curvin Richards led the running attack with his second consecutive 100-yard game, rushing for 207 yards and two touchdowns on 17 carries.

Richards set the tempo early in the game for the Panthers by sprinting 68 yards for a touchdown on Pitt's second offensive play from scrimmage. In total, the Panther offense compiled 354 yards rushing and six touchdowns. Pitt accomplished all of this with a makeshift offensive line that had several starting and top reserve offensive linemen injured.

The Panthers' defense, meanwhile, stifled Navy's potent wishbone offense, limiting it to just 33 yards in total rushing. The Midshipmen entered the game as the eighth-best rushing team in the nation, averaging 286.7 yards per game.

The game also featured a trick, sleight-of-hand play between Pitt quarterback Darnell Dickerson and fullback Dan Crossman that resulted in a 40-yard touchdown run by Crossman.

Most of the game's 58 points were scored in the first half when the weather conditions were less of a factor. Heavy rains in the second half limited both teams' performances. The Panthers did manage seven points in each of the final two quarters.

RUTGERS 10

PITTSBURGH (November 5)—Rain once again soaked Pitt Stadium and a crowd of 20,051 in Pitt's 20-10 win over Rutgers, but there were no dark clouds hovering over freshman tailback Curvin Richards.

Richards rushed for 202 yards—his third 200-yard performance of the season—and scored a touchdown to lead the Panthers to their third straight victory.

Pitt displayed another powerful running attack, totaling 370 yards rushing. It was Pitt's second consecutive game in which it amassed over 350 yards rushing.

Sophomore quarterback Darnell Dickerson ran for 108 yards on 26 carries and completed 6 of 17 passes for 87 yards. Junior fullback Dan Crossman added 52 yards on 10 carries for the Panthers.

The Pitt defense was equally effective, limiting Rutgers to just 177 yards overall. The Scarlet Knights entered the game averaging 226 yards passing; Pitt held them to 93.

Pitt succeeded in controlling the tempo of the game by possessing the ball for nearly 43 minutes to 17 for Rutgers.

Only three points were scored in the first half when the rain affected both teams. Once the weather cleared in the second half, 27 of the 30 points were scored.

GAME 9
PITT 14
PENN STATE 7

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA (November 12)— Pitt withstood all the pressures of playing archrival Penn State in front of a sellout crowd of 85,701 and a national-television (ESPN) audience, to defeat the Nittany Lions, 14-7.

The win was Pitt's fourth straight and was its second consecutive victory against Penn State. The last time the Panthers defeated Penn State back-to-back was in 1979 and 1980 under Coach Jackie Sherrill.

Freshman tailback Curvin Richards and sophomore quarterback Darnell Dickerson sparked the Pitt offense. Richards topped the 100-yard mark for the fourth consecutive game, gaining 159 yards on 31 carries. In the process, he became the sixth Pitt running back to rush for more than 1,000 yards in a season and only the 24th freshman in NCAA history to achieve that mark.

Dickerson added 62 yards rushing and threw for 104 yards. The most impressive aspect of his performance, however, was his dazzling ability to elude rushing Penn State defenders.

Pitt's defense set the tone early in the game when freshman linebacker Curtis Bray, chasing PSU quarterback Lance Lonergan in the end zone, forced Lonergan into intentionally grounding the football, resulting in an automatic safety.

With the exception of an early second-quarter score, which gave the Nittany Lions a 7-2 lead, the Pitt defense stifled the Penn State offense. It held PSU to 106 yards rushing and 114 yards passing. More importantly, the Panthers forced four turnovers, including three interceptions. Junior cornerback Alonzo Hampton had two interceptions, raising his season total to five.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE 14
PITT 3

RALEIGH, NC (November 19)—Except for an impressive opening drive that netted its only points of the game, Pitt had its worst offensive game of the season and lost to Peach Bowl-bound North Carolina State, 14-3, before a crowd of 39,300 at Carter-Finley Stadium.

The loss snapped Pitt's four-game winning streak and also shattered any chance for a bowl bid.

Pitt's offense just could not get in sync against the Wolfpack. The Panthers managed only 273 yards in total offense—165 under their average—committed four turnovers, and were called for 10 penalties, including seven offensive holding infractions.

Freshman tailback Curvin Richards, who entered the game as the seventh-leading rusher in the nation with an average of 121.2 ypg., was held to 65 yards on 19 carries. The Wolfpack also stopped his string of four consecutive 100-yard games.

The Panther passing attack was equally unproductive. Quarterback Darnell Dickerson was uncharacteristically sacked twice and chased out of the pocket several other times. He also threw two interceptions and fumbled once.

Despite yielding two first-half touchdowns, Pitt's defense performed well and held the Wolfpack to only 95 yards in total offense the second half. The Panther offense, however, could not capitalize.

SYRACUSE 24
PITT 7

SYRACUSE, NY (December 3)— Syracuse quarterback Todd Philcox threw for 190 yards, including two touchdown passes, to lead the Citrus Bowl-bound Syracuse Orangemen to a 24-7 win over Pitt before a Carrier Dome crowd of 49,860 and an ESPN national-television audience.

The game was the final regular-season contest for both teams. It was Pitt's second consecutive loss.

The Panthers, coming off a two-week layoff, were ineffective offensively for the second straight game. Pitt's only points came late in the final period when tailback Adam Walker, playing in just his second game since suffering an ankle injury in the fourth game of the season, scored on a 29-yard burst up the middle.

Pitt, however, had two other good scoring opportunities earlier in the game which could have changed the complexion of the contest. On Pitt's opening drive, the Panthers marched to the Syracuse 1-yard line before fumbling the ball away. Early in the second quarter, the Panthers again marched deep into Syracuse territory but failed to score when a 33-yard Scott Kaplan field-goal attempt sailed wide right.

Syracuse used a balanced offensive attack to defeat the Panthers, compiling 398 total yards—208 yards rushing and 190 passing.

The Panthers managed just 336 total yards, well below their season average. Freshman Curvin Richards led all the Panther runners with 72 yards and 19 carries.

The Panthers ended their season with a 6-5 record.

Spring Awards

Linking the past to the present, Mike Gottfried established spring football awards three seasons ago to recognize Pitt's football tradition. The awards acknowledge outstanding performances by Pitt football players during spring practice.

Gottfried's purpose in initiating the awards was "to enhance and strengthen the feeling of Pitt's great football tradition among current squad members."

They include: the Dr. John B. "Jock" Sutherland Award for the most valuable offensive lineman; the Glenn Scobey "Pop" Warner Award for the most valuable defensive lineman; the John Michelosen Award for the most valuable offensive back; the John Majors Award for the most valuable defensive back or linebacker; and the 110 Percent Award for the player "who gives his all and plays every play like it's the Super Bowl."

Last year another award was added to the spring football honor roll. The John Allen Pruitt Humanitarian of the Year Award recognizes outstanding community service such as visiting patients in local hospitals.

The Ed Conway Memorial Award

Ed Conway, the "Voice of Pitt Football" for four years, was a sportscaster in Pittsburgh before his death in 1974. He was an honest, hard working professional, and above all, a friend.

In appreciation of Ed Conway's work, and in keeping alive memories of him, Pitt football presents an award in his honor annually to the most improved offensive and defensive players each spring.

Emerald Isle Classic II

Lansdowne Road Stadium, Dublin, Ireland

As the University of Pittsburgh nears its celebration of 100 years of football tradition in 1990, the Panthers will add a chapter to their first century of history by crossing the Atlantic to participate in the Emerald Isle Classic II against the Rutgers Scarlet Knights on December 2, 1989. Dublin, Ireland, rich in rugby tradition, will host the game at The Lansdowne Road Stadium for the second straight year.

Jim O'Brien, president of the Brian Boru Company which sponsors the Emerald Isle Classic, said, "We are certainly pleased that two fine schools such as Pitt and Rutgers are playing in the Classic. Both schools have great athletic and academic traditions; we are certain that their fans and alumni will support the Classic and take advantage of the chance to visit Ireland."

"This event illustrates, again, that athletics are a component of the larger university. In Dublin, we shall be representing Pitt as a great academic institution with a powerful international dimension."

—University of Pittsburgh President Wesley W. Posvar

O'Brien made the arrangements with Dr. Edward E. Bozik and Frederick E. Gruninger, directors of athletics at Pitt and Rutgers. The game was originally a Rutgers home contest to be played at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, New Jersey, on November 4, 1989.

"We are delighted to have the opportunity to participate in a football game with Rutgers University at the 1989 Emerald Isle Classic II,"

"We are very pleased to have a chance to take our football team to Dublin to play against Rutgers in the Emerald Isle Classic. It will be something for our players to look forward to throughout the 1989 season, and I know it will be a great educational experience for them."

—Pitt Head Coach Mike Gottfried

Bozik said. "It will also be an enriching experience for our student athletes, and a wonderful opportunity for all of us—athletes, coaches, staff, alumni, and fans—to sample firsthand the great hospitality of the city of Dublin and the Irish people."

The Classic was initiated in 1988 when Boston College defeated Army, 38-24, before a sellout crowd of 42,525 on November 19, 1988. The anticipation of Pitt and Rutgers mingling their solid traditions with that of the Irish should make for an exciting 1989 season.

99 Years of Pitt Football

In October of 1986, moments before his sixth game as Pitt's 29th head football coach, Mike Gottfried addressed his troops in the locker room at Notre Dame Stadium.

"We're playing in a place where there's a lot of tradition," Gottfried said, beginning his pregame speech. "But I'm going to tell you something — we pack a ton ourselves.

"The tradition at the University of Pittsburgh ranks with anyone's."

Indeed, the University of Pittsburgh has a long and storied football history. Its nine national championships rank Pitt sixth in NCAA annals. The football program ranks fifth among Division I-A schools in consensus All-Americans, tenth among all colleges and universities. Only 13 schools have more victories than Pitt's 538.

Sixteen men involved with Pitt football — players and coaches alike — have been elected into the College Football Hall of Fame, while two men have been enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame. Nearly 200 former Panthers have played in the National Football League, while ten men have coached in it. Three former Pitt football players — Mike Ditka, Marty Schottenheimer and Joe Walton — are presently coaching NFL teams, a number no other school can match.

Pitt's football tradition began as Western University of Pennsylvania, the school's name until 1908. Many games in the early years involved high schools and athletic clubs; in fact, only 27 of the school's 56 games in the 1890s were intercollegiate.

The first game, on October 11, 1890, actually was something of a fluke. When a game scheduled between the Shadyside Academy and Allegheny Athletic Association was cancelled because Shadyside failed to show, Western's team was summoned to Exposition Park. Allegheny AA won the game, 38-0.

Western also began the first of many long-standing rivalries that season when it lost, 32-0, to Washington and Jefferson. The schools would meet 33 times before the series ended after the 1935 season.

After posting a winning record (4-2) for the first time in 1892, Western hired Anson F. Harrold as its first true coach in 1893. His lone season also provided the first controversy in the school's athletic history.

Harrold, who played for Western while he was coaching (eligibility rules had not yet been established), and his top player, Joseph Trees, both also played for an athletic club, the Allegheny Athletic Association (a commonplace occurrence in that era). When Trees announced late in the season he would skip Western's game with Penn State to play instead for Allegheny AA in a game against the Pittsburgh Athletic Club scheduled the same day, Western Chancellor William Jacob Holland cancelled the game against Penn State.

Shortly afterward, when Trees promised not to play for Allegheny again, Western's game with Penn State was rescheduled and played. Trees then played for Allegheny the following afternoon.

The controversy that surrounded the 1893 team may have left a lasting impact — the teams of 1894-97 accumulated a 6-16 record.

Western then had four winning seasons — followed by two losing years — before fielding its first great team.

Arthur St. L. Mosse coached the 1904 squad to a 10-0 record. The team was so dominant that it did not allow a point through its first nine games. In the tenth, the team's first win over Penn State, Pitt's archrivals scored the only points allowed all season.

The success of 1904 carried over for the rest of the decade. Western/Pitt compiled a 38-13-1 record from 1905-1909, allowing only 180 points (an average of 36 points per season).

The university also etched its name in history in 1908, when Pitt played Carlisle. On that afternoon, both teams wore uniform numbers. The game, which Carlisle won 6-0, is recognized as the first game ever where players wore numbers on jerseys.

The 1910 team capped this glorious era by becoming the only team in Pitt history to finish a season unbeaten, untied and unscored upon. The team was coached by Joseph Thompson, a member of the 1904 squad that nearly achieved the same feat. Thompson was elected to the College Football Hall of Fame in 1971.

Joseph Duff coached the 1913-14 teams, winning 14 and tying once in 18 tries. His last two games began a string of 31 consecutive Pitt victories, a run that ended four years later with a loss to the Cleveland Naval Reserve (the streak reached 33 in intercollegiate play before Pitt lost to Syracuse in 1919).

The coach during most of that streak was to become one of the first legends of his profession, Glenn Scobey "Pop" Warner. His nine years at Pitt produced 59 victories and only 12 losses, and he didn't lose until the Cleveland Naval Reserve game at the conclusion of his fourth season.

Norman Budd, Jr.

Pitt was selected as collegiate national champion three times under Warner, in 1915, 1916 and 1918. Several Pitt players were among the first All-Americans ever selected, including team captain Robert Peck (1914-16), John Bain "Jock" Sutherland and H.C. "Doc" Carlson. The last two players named would go on to become the winningest coaches in Pitt's football and basketball histories, respectively.

Many contemporaries considered the 1916 team Pitt team the best to date in college football. Warner, who later took Stanford to several Rose Bowls, considered it the best team he ever coached.

Two of the greatest runners in Pitt history played for Warner — Tom Davies and George McLaren. Seven decades later both All-Americans still hold prominent places in the school's all-time statistical leaders.

Sutherland replaced Warner as head coach in 1924, and his 15-year reign was a glorious era that featured five national championships, four Rose Bowl appearances, and an overall record of 112-20-12.

Sutherland's tenure was filled with great players and classic games. Marshall Goldberg, Dick Cassiano, Harold "Curly" Stebbins and John Chickerneo comprised the "Dream Backfield" of 1938. Gibby Welch, Warren Heller, Ave Daniell, Tony Matisi, Joe Skladany, Charles "Doc" Hartwig, Joe Donchess and Bill Daddio were among the nearly two dozen All-Americans who played under Sutherland.

Minnesota's 13-7 victory over Pitt in 1934 is considered among the greatest games in collegiate history. Golden Gopher coach Bernie Bierman, who led the school for 16 seasons between 1932 and 1950, called the 1934 Pitt squad the best team Minnesota ever faced.

One of the greatest rivalries in Pitt history, though, was a snippet of a series in the 1930s against Fordham.

Today, Fordham is not known as a football power, but in those days, it was among the mightiest in the land, and featured the famous "Seven Blocks of Granite," including Vince Lombardi.

The schools played but seven times, from 1935-41, but those games are well known in college football lore. The reason: neither team scored for three years. 1935 —Pitt 0, Fordham 0. 1936 —Pitt 0, Fordham 0. 1937 — Pitt 0, Fordham 0. The final two ties equalled two-thirds of the blemishes on Pitt's records in those national championship years. The only true scoring threat in any game was a 1937 Goldberg touchdown which was called back for holding.

In 1938, the largest crowd ever to watch a sporting event in Pittsburgh, 68,918, watched Pitt and Fordham do the unthinkable: score against each other. Pitt won, 24-13.

Pitt's other great rival, Penn State, didn't fare well against Sutherland; his teams were 12-0 against the Nittany Lions. Penn State even dropped Pitt from its schedule for three seasons (1932-34) because the Panthers were so powerful. In fact, Notre Dame also cut the Panthers out of its schedule after Pitt won five of six meetings from 1932-37. National power Nebraska never mastered Sutherland — he was 9-0-3 against the Cornhuskers.

Sutherland's teams, as noted, went to four Rose Bowls, and actually declined an invitation to a fifth. Only once did they return from Pasadena a winner, after topping Washington 21-0 on New Year's Day, 1937. The following season, the team declined another Rose Bowl invitation, a decision many players still regret today.

Sutherland had endured a long-standing battle with Chancellor John Bowman over the direction, and relative importance, of the football program. When Sutherland resigned after the 1938 season, Bowman de-emphasized football, stripping the team of financial aid in the form of athletic scholarships and leaving it essentially to fend for itself.

The post-Sutherland era in the 1940s was a downtrodden period for Pitt football. Eight consecutive losing seasons culminated with the disastrous 1947 campaign. That team went 1-8, and was outscored 267-26. The only win was a 12-0 upset of Ohio State.

There were some highlights along the way. On November 8, 1941, Pitt met Fordham for the final time. The outlook was bleak — Fordham was 5-0 and apparently headed for the Rose Bowl. Pitt was 0-5, and had scored but 21 points.

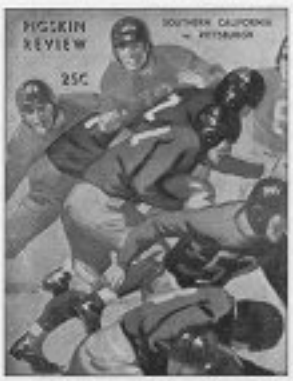
Led by Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones, Pitt's greatest star of the 1940s, the Panthers pulled one of the biggest upsets in school history by decking the Rams, 12-0. Jones rushed for 106 yards, picked off two passes, and scored one of Pitt's touchdowns. Fordham had to settle for the Sugar Bowl.

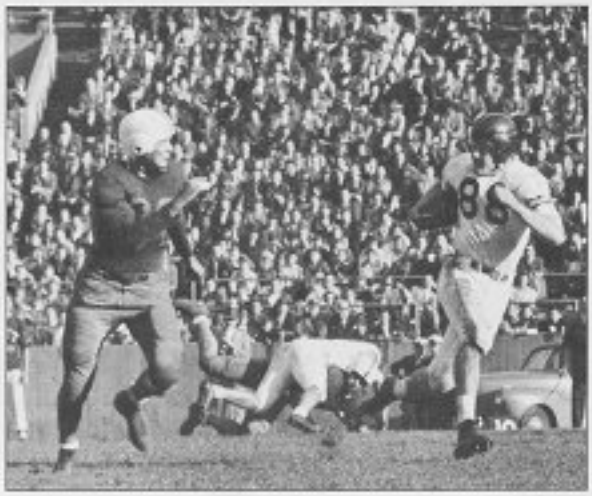
Consecutive 6-3 seasons under head coach Walter S. Milligan in 1948-49 eased the pain, but the team enjoyed little success in the five following years. One of the few bright spots was All-America linebacker Joe Schmidt, who later became Pitt's first alumnus to be selected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Perhaps the best triumph of the period was a 1952 victory over Frank Leahy's Notre Dame team. Billy Reynolds's 79-yard run and a 63-yard pass from John Jacobs to Rudy Mattioli staked Pitt to a 13-0 lead, and coach Lowell "Red" Dawson's Panthers hung on for a 22-19 win.

John Michelosen, who was a quarterback for Pitt's national championship teams of 1936 and 1937, took over as head coach for the 1955 team, and quickly restored some of Sutherland's magic. Michelosen's first two teams, featuring star receiver Joe Walton, now head coach of the New York Jets, made trips to the Sugar Bowl and Gator Bowl in 1955 and 1956, respectively — the only two bowl appearances for Pitt between 1936 and 1973.

The 1955 team was the first of three Pitt squads to earn Sugar Bowl invitations. The opponent on this occasion was Georgia Tech.





Wade Mitchell scored the game's only touchdown with a first-quarter quarterback sneak as Tech nipped Pitt, 7-0. The touchdown was set up by a pass interference call against Pitt's Bobby Grier, the first black man to play in the Sugar Bowl.

Pitt came back with a 7-2-1 season in 1956, including a 14-7 upset over previously unbeaten Miami in the regualar-season finale. The Panthers were rewarded with a trip to the Gator Bowl for a rematch with Georgia Tech. This would also be the first of three trips to that game. Tech won again, 21-14.

Another lean cycle followed. Among the few highlights as the 1950s wound down was a last-minute victory over Notre Dame in 1958. Quarterback Bill Kaliden ran for the final TD in a 29-26 thriller at Pitt Stadium. It would be the first of three consecutive defeats of the Fighting Irish.

Tight end Mike Ditka earned All-America honors in 1960. The dominant star from Aliquippa, Pa., would later be elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. He is also a member of the College Football Hall of Fame, and is the only Pitt grad in both football shrines.

One of the greatest yet most frustrating years in Pitt football chronicles was 1963, when Michelosen's club was among the best in the nation, but ended up home during bowl season. The 9-1 team's only mar was a loss to Navy, featuring Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach. Pitt, which finished the season ranked third (behind Texas and Navy), felt it deserved a major bowl bid. The Panthers ignored "lesser" bowls, which were eager to invite them. The major bowl invitation never came, and the snubbed Pitt team stayed home.

The nine years that followed (1964-1972) were among the worst in Pitt football annals. The cumulative record in that span (22-68-2) reflects the doldrums. One story in 1968 even told of Pitt Head Coach Dave Hart asking the referees to keep the clock running during a 56-7 loss to Notre Dame in which Pitt trailed 49-0 at halftime. There were also rumors that the school would de-emphasize football to the point of dropping from the major-college level.

Current University President Wesley Posvar in December, 1972, instead made a strong commitment to football, and pointed Pitt toward a gridiron renaissance by hiring Johnny Majors as head coach. Posvar has been a guiding force in the rebirth of Pitt football throughout his reign as the University's top official.

"The Major Change in Pitt Football," as it was known, came about immediately. Pitt, coming off a 1-10 year, opened at Georgia, which had been 7-4 in 1972.

Led by freshman running back Tony Dorsett, Pitt earned a 7-7 tie in Athens, providing the first spark in a remarkable turnaround season that ended at the Fiesta Bowl. Dorsett gained 265 yards at Northwestern and rushed for 209 yards against Notre Dame, the most the Irish had ever allowed by one back. Dorsett was named All-American, Majors was named Coach-of-the-Year, and Pitt finished 6-5-1. Dorsett rushed for 1,686 yards, making him Pitt's sixth all-time leading career rusher after his freshman year.

A 7-4 season in 1974 was another step forward and Pitt appeared on national television for the first time since the 1965 Duke game was televised by NBC. The game was against Penn State, the first of three consecutive years the teams would play at Three Rivers Stadium. The Lions won, 31-10.

Dorsett turned in his greatest single-game effort in 1975, shredding the Irish for 303 yards as Pitt surprised Notre Dame, 34-20. Dorsett, Elliott Walker and quarterback Robert Haygood each topped 100 yards rushing as Pitt capped an 8-4 season with a 33-19 Sun Bowl win over Kansas.

The 1976 season was filled with difficult challenges, but Majors, Dorsett, and company overcame each hurdle on the way to a 12-0 national championship season.

For the opener, ABC Sports had requested that Pitt play Notre Dame in early September. Both teams were expected to compete for the national title.

Pitt had not won at South Bend since 1963, and when the Panthers' offense first took the field, the score was already Notre Dame 7, Pitt 0. Dorsett set a more correct tone for Pitt by rushing for 61 yards on the offense's first play from scrimmage, and the Panthers rolled to a 31-10 victory. Dorsett holds the NCAA record for most yards gained against one opponent in a career, 754 yards against Notre Dame.

The next obstacle came during an easy win at Georgia Tech — Haygood was injured and lost for the season. Matt Cavanaugh replaced him at quarterback.

Three games later, Cavanaugh went down with an ankle injury. Tom Yewcic, a walk-on who was once listed as the ninth-string quarterback, took over. Pitt continued winning. Against Navy at Annapolis, Dorsett became the NCAA's all-time leading rusher. Against Penn State, Pitt erased one of the few blemishes from the Dorsett/Majors era: an 0-3 record against the Nittany Lions. Pitt's 24-7 win against Penn State set up a battle for the national championship against Georgia in the Sugar Bowl.

The 'Dawgs' were no match. Cavanaugh's superb play, combined with Dorsett's 202 yards and a dominating defense carried Pitt to the pinnacle in a 27-3 win to clinch Pitt's ninth national championnhip.

Dorsett finished the season with 2,150 yards, and had a total of 6,526 in his incredible career. He won the Heisman Trophy, and Majors again won Coach-of-the-Year. Dorsett moved on to the Dallas Cowboys, and Majors departed after the season as well, returning to coach his alma mater, Tennessee.

Jackie Sherrill replaced Majors and posted an outstanding 50-9-1 record in his five-year tenure. Each squad produced at least eight victories, and Sherrill left Pitt after three consecutive 11-1 performances.

The Majors era was characterized by a dynamic running game; Sherrill's teams were known for defense. Hugh Green, Randy Holloway, Rickey Jackson, Sal Sunseri, Greg Meisner, and Carlton Williamson led the charge and helped comprise one of the top college defenses of this generation. Green, who won the Lombardi Award, finished second in the Heisman Trophy voting in 1980. Offensive tackle Mark May won the Outland Trophy in 1980.

Twelve Panthers were selected in the 1981 NFL Draft, including three first-round choices — Green, May and running back Randy McMillan. (In the 1980s, several other Pitt stars were NFL first-round picks, including All-Pros Bill Maas, Jimbo Covert, Bill Fralic, Dan Marino, and Chris Doleman.)

The offense under Sherrill moved skyward, first with Cavanaugh passing to Gordon Jones, later with Dan Marino spraying touchdown passes to Julius Dawkins and Dwight Collins. Marino would become the most productive passer in school history, as Pitt won 42 of 48 games during his four years.

In 1981, Marino had a season few quarterbacks could even dream about. He completed 226 of 380 passes for 2,876 yards and a whopping 37 touchdowns, all of which still stand as Pitt records. Those statistics would have been even greater, but Marino missed a game with an injury. Only Brigham Young's Jim McMahon earned a higher passing efficiency rating among NCAA passers that season.

Pitt was 10-0 and ranked number one before Penn State pulled off a major upset at Pitt Stadium, defeating the Panthers, 48-14.

Pitt tried to rebound against Herschel Walker and the Georgia Bulldogs in the Sugar Bowl, but late in the game the Panthers found themselves trailing, 20-17. In the final minute, Sherrill was urged by Marino to skip a field goal attempt for a tie and go for victory on 4th-and-5. Tight end John Brown broke open deep, and Marino hit him for the winning touchdown. The Penn State loss prevented a national championship, but Sherrill's Sugar Bowl Special left Pitt feeling on top of the world.

When Sherrill moved on to Texas A&M in 1982, it was only natural that Serafino "Foge" Fazio take over. Fazio had been a part of Pitt football most of his adult life — he played here, then was an assistant coach.

He moved into a hot seat — Pitt was the nation's top-ranked team when the season kicked off. Although the team struggled at times, Pitt was 7-0 before Notre Dame pulled off a 31-16 upset at Pitt Stadium. Marino's career ended on New Year's Day with a disappointing 7-3 loss to SMU in the Cotton Bowl.

John Congemi replaced Marino as the Panther's primary quarterback during the next four years, and only Marino ever passed for more yards at Pitt. Congemi led the Panthers to an 8-3-1 record in 1983, and completed a school-record 31 passes when Pitt lost to Ohio State in the Fiesta Bowl.

The Panthers then encountered a down cycle for several years. Despite outstanding play from All-America tackle Bill Fralic, the 1984 team collapsed to a 3-7-1 record. The 1985 team improved, but only to 5-5-1.

In December of 1985, Pitt hired Mike Gottfried to replace Fazio. Although the record in 1986 was a repeat 5-5-1, an upbeat attitude returned. A 48-16 win over West Virginia revealed Gottfried's offensive acumen; a gritty 10-9 conquest at Notre Dame displayed a doggedness not seen the previous year.

In 1987, Pitt was again among the top teams in college football. An 8-4 record culminated with a trip to the Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston. Pitt defeated rivals West Virginia, Notre Dame and Penn State in the same season for the first time since 1976. The latter two were special victories.

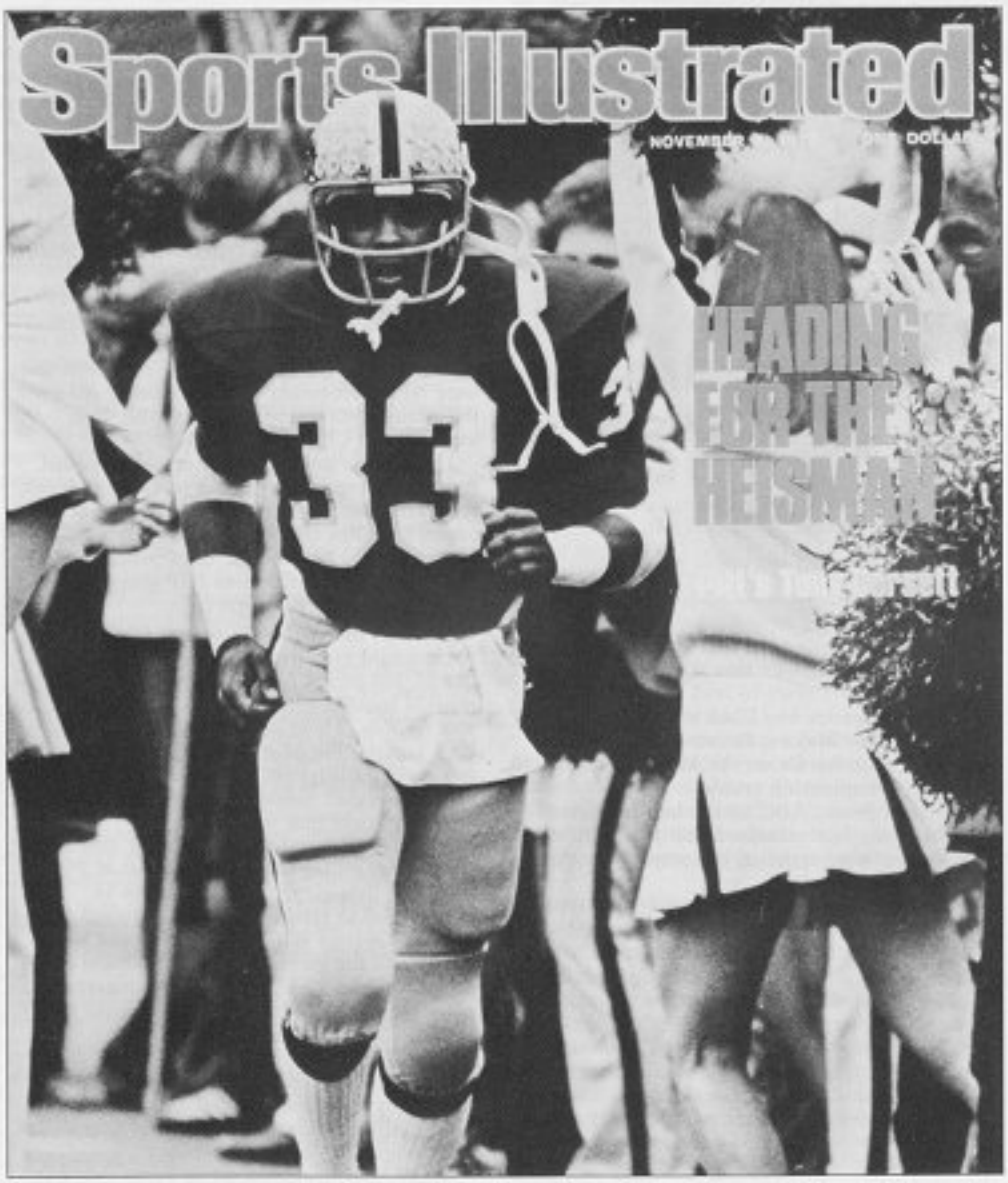
Pitt was an underdog at home against the Irish, but swamped Lou Holtz's team with a 27-point first-half barrage. Pitt won, 30-22.

The Panthers had not beaten Penn State at Pitt Stadium since 1965, and had not shut out the Nittany Lions since 1955. But when strong safety Billy Owens intercepted a pass in the closing seconds and returned it for a touchdown, Pitt had a 10-0 win.

The offensive star of the 1987 team was tailback Craig "Ironhead" Heyward, who finished second in the nation with 1,791 yards rushing and scored 12 touchdowns. Heyward joined Dorsett in the select list of nine college players who have rushed for 100 yards in every game of an entire season.

Another success story was linebacker Zeke Gadson, who finished the season with a school-record 24½ sacks, second in the nation. Gadson, who wasn't even expected to be a starter, earned All-America recognition and was the first finalist for the Butkus Award (as the best linebacker in the nation) who was not among a list of preseason candidates.

Last season's 6-5 record included victories over Ohio State and Penn State. Guard Mark Stepnoski, a consensus All-American, and tackle Tom Ricketts, added to Pitt's growing tradition of outstanding offensive linemen. Stepnoski, a finalist for the Outland Trophy, was drafted in the third round by the Dallas Cowboys; Ricketts was selected in the first round by the Pittsburgh Steelers.



Tom Ricketts

Other top performers for the 1988 Panthers included All-America linebacker Jerry Olsavsky, who became the first player since Arnie Weatherington to record three consecutive 100-plus tackle seasons; defensive end Burt Grossman, who was a first-round draft pick by the San Diego Chargers; and freshman running back Curvin Richards, who rushed for 1,228 yards (the seventh-highest figure by a freshman in NCAA history) and was named 1988 Freshman of the Year by The Sporting News, the ECAC, and UPI.

Through its first 99 seasons, Pitt has produced some of the greatest players, teams, coaches, and moments in college football history. It would be fair to say that the teams of 1916, 1937, 1976 and 1980 are among the best ever.

Rating Systems

To settle countless arguments, Sports Illustrated in 1970 researched the first and only complete and wholly accurate list ever compiled of college football's mythical national champions. Every recognized authority that ever presumed to name a No. 1 is included:

The Associated Press (1936-current); poll of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Park H. Davis Ratings (1889-1935); chosen by Davis, a player at Princeton in 1889 and a former coach at Wisconsin, Amherst and Lafayette, and first published in the 1934 Spaulding's Football Guide.

Dickinson System (1924-40); chosen by University of Illinois economics professor Frank G. Dickinson; based on system that awarded various point totals for wins over teams with winning or non-winning records.

Dunkel System (1929-current); a power index rating system devised by Dick Dunkel and syndicated to newspapers around the nation.

Football Writers Association of America (1954-current); chosen by a five-man committee representing membership.

Helms First Interstate Bank Athletic Foundation (1889-current); originally founded in 1936 as Helms Athletic Foundation and changed in early 1970s to Citizen Savings Athletic Foundation before current name was adopted in 1981.

Illustrated Football Annual (1924-41); an "azzi ratem" system published in this highly regarded fan magazine by William F. Boand.

Litkenhouse System (1934-current); a "difference-by-score" method syndicated by Fred Litkenhouse and his brother Edward.

National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame (1959-current); chosen annually by committee representing membership.

The Football Thesaurus (1927-58); system devised by Duke Houlgate and published in book of same title.

United Press International (1950-current); poll of 35 college coaches.

Williamson System (1932-63); system of syndicated power ratings chosen by Paul Williamson, a geologist and member of the Sugar Bowl committee.

Pitt Athletic Directors

In the early 1900s, when Pitt was still known as Western University of Pennsylvania, the athletic program was searching for direction and for organization.

To remedy the problem, the University established a General Athletic Committee at the turn of the century, which was controlled by chairman such as Alexander Marshall Thompson and James Garfield Houston.

With the program growing and prospering, and with athletics establishing themselves as a viable collegiate activity, Pitt hired its first Athletic Director in 1913—Charles S. Miller.

When Miller retired in 1925, the University had a graduate manager, Karl E. Davis, run the athletic department. Pitt returned to its present practice of having a professional athletic director in 1929.

Since athletics began at the University of Pittsburgh, eight men, including Davis, have served as athletic director:

Charles S. Miller, 1913-1925
Karl E. Davis, 1925-1929
Don Harrison, 1929-1938
Jim Hagan, 1938-1949
Tom Hamilton, 1949-1959
Frank Carver, 1959-1968
Casimir J. Myslinski, 1968-1982
Edward E. Bozik, 1982-present

All-Americans

The following list of Pitt's first-team All-Americans was compiled from various sources, including the NCAA Football Guide, and consists of players who were first team selections on one or more of the All-American teams of the last 73 years. Over the years, these selections were made by Walter Camp, Grantland Rice, Casper Whitney, INS, AP, UPI, NANA, NEA, the Football Writers, the Football Coaches Association, the All-America Board, Newsweek and The Sporting News.

Pitt Hall of Famers

John Majors (top)*
Joe Schmidt (bottom)*

Pro Football Hall of Fame

Mike Ditka received pro football's highest honor on July 30, 1988, when he was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame. He is the second Pitt football player to be enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, joining Joe Schmidt.

Ditka was an All-America tight end at Pitt in 1960, his senior season. He led the Panthers in receiving three consecutive years. Ditka was also an excellent linebacker and punter. He was the captain of the 1960 squad.

His pro football career included All-Pro honors, and Ditka was a member of the Chicago Bears' 1963 NFL Championship team, and the Dallas Cowboys' Super Bowl VI championship team. Ditka worked as an assistant coach at Dallas for nine seasons, including another Super Bowl title year.

This fall he begins his eighth year as head coach of the Bears, a team he has rebuilt into a perennial power. The Bears won Super Bowl XX under Ditka.

Ditka is Pitt's only alumnus to be enshrined in both the Pro and College Football Halls of Fame.

Schmidt, Pitt's other inductee in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was an All-American linebacker at Pitt in 1952, his senior season. He followed that with a brilliant 13-year career with the Detroit Lions, and was a member of the Lions' two NFL Championship teams. He later coached the team for six seasons, and led Detroit to its only playoff appearance of the 1970s. He was inducted in 1973.

College Football Hall of Fame

Johnny Majors became the fifth former Pitt coach to be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame on June 10, 1988. Majors coached the Panthers from 1973-76, and guided them to their ninth national championship.

The team Majors inherited was 1-10 in 1972, but the turnaround was sudden. Pitt jumped to 6-5-1 in 1973 (including a trip to the Fiesta Bowl), 7-4 in 1974, 8-4 with a Sun Bowl victory in 1975, and the perfect 12-0 national championship season of 1976. That year, and Majors' Pitt career, was capped by a 27-3 Sugar Bowl win over Georgia. He compiled a 33-13-1 record at Pitt.

Majors, who coached at Iowa State before coming to Pitt, returned to coach his alma mater, Tennessee, after the 1976 season. As a player there, Majors finished second in the Heisman Trophy balloting to Paul Hornung in 1956.

The following Pitt players and coaches have been inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame:

Pitt Players in the NFL

During the 1980s, few schools—if any—can match the number and quality quotient of players the University of Pittsburgh has forwarded to the National Football League.

Of course, Pitt through the decades has been a fertile talent source for the NFL, both for players and coaches. Standouts such as Marshall Goldberg, Jock Sutherland, Joe Schmidt, Joe Walton, Fred Cox, Marty Schottenheimer, and Mike Ditka are among the prominent names in a long roll call of Panthers who have gained fame in pro football.

But in the past 10 years (1980-89), there has been a dramatic surge of top Pitt-bred talent in the NFL. Currently, for instance, three Pitt men are NFL head coaches: Ditka (Chicago Bears), Walton (New York Jets), and Schottenheimer (first with the Cleveland Browns, presently with the Kansas City Chiefs). And at the start of training camps this summer, there were 42 former Panthers on NFL rosters, placing Pitt in the top 10 of player representation in the NFL. That figure includes an impressive total of 14 Pitt players who have been chosen in the first round of the NFL college draft during the past decade. In that same time span, only USC (with 16) has had more first-round picks.

Probably no school, though, can match the kind of instant impact Pitt's recent NFL players have made. Of Pitt's 12 first-round picks from 1981-88, 11 became starters as rookies—92 percent. Seven of those players eventually reached the AFC-NFC Pro Bowl.

(According to research compiled by The Pittsburgh Press, 56 percent of USC's 16 first-round picks became starters as rookies. Also, three other major college powers, Oklahoma, Miami, and Penn State, each had 10 first-round draft picks during that time span. Seventy percent of Miami's players started as rookies, 60 percent of Penn State's rookies became starters, and 40 percent of Oklahoma's players.)

The great Pitt teams of the late 1970s and early 1980s began providing this motherlode of impact talent to the NFL. Heisman Trophy running back Tony Dorsett started the stream when the Dallas Cowboys traded up with the Seattle Seahawks to select him with the second pick of the 1977 draft. A year later a pair of Dorsett's teammates on Pitt's 1976 national championship team, defensive end Randy Holloway (a Minnesota Vikings first-round pick) and quarterback Matt Cavanaugh (second round by the New England Patriots), joined Dorsett in the NFL.

Three consecutive 11-1 seasons (1979, 1980, and 1981) provided another rich haul of future professional talent. The 1980 squad, in particular, was blessed with an extraordinary number of future NFL stars.

Twelve players were drafted from Pitt's 1980 squad, including three first-round picks: defensive end Hugh Green (Tampa Bay Buccaneers), tackle Mark May (Washington Redskins), and running back Randy McMillan (Baltimore Colts). Defensive end Rickey Jackson (second round, New Orleans Saints), guard Russ Grimm (third round, Washington Redskins), safety Carlton Williamson (third round, San Francisco 49ers), defensive tackle Greg Meisner (third round, Los Angeles Rams), cornerback Lynn Thomas (fifth round, San Francisco 49ers), tight end Benjie Pryor (fifth round, Cincinnati Bengals), defensive tackle Jerry Boyarsky (fifth round, New Orleans Saints), defensive tackle Bill Neill (fifth round, New York Giants), and quarterback Rick Trocano (11th round, Pittsburgh Steelers) were the other draftees; seven additional seniors on the 1980 squad signed free agent contracts with NFL clubs.

Among the underclassmen on that fabulous 1980 team were three players who also would all become NFL first-round draftees in 1983—quarterback Dan Marino (Miami Dolphins), tackle Jim Covert (Chicago Bears), and defensive back Tim Lewis (Green Bay Packers)—as well as defensive tackle Bill Maas, whom the Kansas City Chiefs chose in the first round in 1984. Two other underclassmen in 1980, center Jim Sweeney and defensive back Tom Flynn, have gone on to have fine NFL careers.

"That was the best football team ever assembled, talentwise," claims its coach, Jackie Sherrill. "They get a lot better when you sit back and look at what they've done since. Never, ever, has a team produced that many great players."

The Pitt player pipeline to the NFL has continued throughout the rest of the 1980s. Subsequent first-round draft picks have included guard Bill Fralic (Atlanta Falcons) and defensive end Chris Doleman (Minnesota Vikings) in 1985; defensive end Bob Buczkowski (Los Angeles Raiders) in 1986; linebacker Tony Woods (Seattle Seahawks) in 1987, running back Craig Heyward (New Orleans Saints) in 1988; and defensive end Burt Grossman (San Diego Chargers) and offensive tackle Tom Ricketts (Pittsburgh Steelers) in 1989.

NFL talent scouts echo one another when they discuss Pitt prospects.

"Pitt players are a known commodity," says Les Miller, the college personnel director for the San Diego Chiefs. "You hardly see any failures there. Not only do they make it, but they become the players everyone expects them to be. They all seem to have the right work ethic and a desire to be the best."

"There is no question the kids from Pitt come ready to play in the National Football League," says John Butler, the director of college scouting for the Buffalo Bills.

"I think it is probably true that the kids at Pitt are a little more adaptive to the NFL than kids from most other schools," says Joe Woolley, director of personnel for the Philadelphia Eagles. "Pitt recruits outstanding athletes, then teaches them pro techniques and uses a lot of pro schemes."

According to a pair of former Pitt greats, hard work and skillful coaching are also part of the mix.

"At least half our team, probably more, came from Western Pennsylvania and had that Western Pennsylvania work ethic," says Covert, who was named the NFL Offensive Lineman of the Year in 1986. "You work as hard as you possibly can, and then you work a little harder."

Says Chris Doleman, selected the NFL's Defensive Lineman of the Year in 1988, "It seems like the coaching we got put us a step ahead of everybody else. I know the coaches (in Minnesota) have to teach rookies the things we learned early in our careers at Pitt."

Miami Head Coach Don Shula hints there is something else Pitt players acquire during their college careers.

"It is rare for a quarterback to embody toughness the way defensive players do," he says, "but Dan Marino does just that. It's more than the way he ignores his own safety and stands in the pocket waiting until the last possible moment to throw, or the way he verbally and emotionally dominates the field. He just has a mental and physical toughness that you don't see too often. The interesting thing is that the only other player on the Dolphins who really shows that same toughness is Hugh Green, who came from the school."

Schottenheimer and Walton agree there may be a toughness edge at Pitt.

"There is a drive, a desire to succeed that is instilled in virtually every player that comes out of the University of Pittsburgh," Schottenheimer says. "I've been around a lot of players, both as a player myself and as a coach, and I haven't seen that same trait from any other school. I can't exactly put my finger on why it's there, but it seems the players coming out of Pitt all get those qualities, ones that help not only on the football field but in most other challenging professions in life."

"The bottom line," says Walton," is that if you look at the coaches from Pitt in the NFL, we're all tough disciplinarians. And if you look at the players, they're all tough, too. They're successful, and, generally, we're successful. Those three things just seem to go together on the football field or on the sidelines: success, toughness, and the University of Pittsburgh. As far as I'm concerned, in pro football, that's the second heavenly trinity."

Panthers in the Super Bowl

The Super Bowl is without doubt the biggest annual one-day event in American sports. A number of former Pitt players have played (and coached) in the Super Bowl, and many wear the ring of victory; in fact, at least one Pitt alumnus has been associated with the winning team in each of the last eight Super Bowls.

Mike Ditka is the only Pitt man to win the Super Bowl as both a player and head coach. Ditka was a member of the Dallas Cowboys when they defeated Miami in Super Bowl VI. In 1986, Ditka coached the Chicago Bears to victory in Super Bowl XX over the New England Patriots. Among the Bears' starters that day was tackle Jim Covert, a former Pitt All-American.

Mike Ditka

Carlton Williamson

Carlton Williamson added a third Super Bowl ring to his collection this past season as a member of the NFL Champion San Francisco 49'ers. The first Pitt alumnus to accomplish this feat, Williamson also earned rings in Super Bowls XVI and XIX. Only two other former Panthers, Russ Grimm and Mark May, have captured the coveted prize more than once. Grimm and May both received rings for the Washington Redskins' triumphs in Super Bowls XVII and XXII.

No Pitt player was more fortunate to get to the Super Bowl than Tom Flynn, who began the 1986 season with Green Bay. The Packers released him, and late in the same season he signed with the New York Giants, who captured Super Bowl XXI.

On the flipside, Fred Cox, a star at Pitt in the late 1950s and early 1960s and a placekicker with the Minnesota Vikings, endured the agony of Super Bowl defeat four times. Dan Marino had arguably the best season ever for a pro quarterback in 1984, but his Dolphins lost to San Francisco in the Super Bowl.

STANFORD	0	0	7	0	—	7
PITT	0	0	6	0	—	6

Pitt's first bowl trip resembled a politician's whistle-stop tour — wherever Pitt was at lunchtime during its trek west, it practiced. The routine was simple: deboard the train around 11:15; explore the day's town until noon; lunch at 12; walk lunch off, then practice; reboard the train. So it was that Pitt practiced in Dodge City, Albuquerque and Winslow, Arizona, on the way to Pasadena. The game had a sentimental storyline: the coach against his mentor. Panther Coach John B. "Jock" Sutherland had played for Stanford Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner when the latter was at Pitt. Amidst all that, the game, although close, was controlled by Stanford. Pitt grabbed a 6-0 third-quarter lead when Jimmy Hagan scooped up a Cardinal fumble and ran 20 yards for a touchdown. The extra point was missed. Stanford, which made several marches deep into Pitt territory, finally scored on an unusual play. On fourth-and-goal at the two, Stanford quarterback Biff Hoffman completed a pass to Bob Sims, but it was short of the goal line. Sims was hit and fumbled, but Frank Wilton picked up the loose ball and carried it in to tie the game. Hoffman's extra point won it, 7-6. Pitt, a slight favorite entering the game, mustered very little offense in its first of four Rose Bowl games.

If vintage football films give you the impression that the game of the 20s and 30s was run, run, and run again, think again. USC's Trojans bombed Pitt with an all-out passing attack. The game started on a bright note for "Jock" Sutherland's team when Toby Uansa rushed 68 yards on Pitt's first play. Pitt failed to score, then the walls caved in. Gaius Shaver connected with Henry Edelson for a 55-yard touchdown. Later in the quarter, Shaver hit Ernest Pinckert for a 28-yard score, capitalizing on a Pitt fumble. Another fumble led to USC's third touchdown, a short run which opened the score to 19-0. Two Jesses set up the Trojans' next score when Jesse Mortensen and Jesse Hill teamed for a 51-yard pass play. Russell Saunders helped convert a USC interception into a 33-0 lead with his 13-yard scoring run. Pitt finally broke through in the third quarter when Uansa threw a 28-yard pass to William Wallinchus. Southern Cal sandwiched two more long touchdown passes (38 and 62 yards) around a Tom Parkinson-to-Paul Collins 36-yard TD pass for Pitt to arrive at the final score. In all, the Trojans scored the most points against Pitt since 1903. It would be Sutherland's second worst margin of defeat in his 15 seasons at Pitt; the worst would come three years later, also against USC in the Rose Bowl.

Pitt's coach, John B. "Jock" Sutherland, would try a new ploy after two Rose Bowl losses, so he took the team to Tucson to practice for its first Rose Bowl win. Instead Sutherland suffered the worst loss in his Pitt career. It was the first time since 1928 that Pitt was shut out and actually lost the game; it had played four scoreless ties since a 6-0 loss to Carnegie Tech. With 83,000 in attendance, the Panthers stayed close until the fourth quarter before collapsing. USC's Homer Griffith threw, and later caught, a touchdown pass as the Trojans built a 14-0 lead through three quarters. After Irvine Warburton scored to make the score 21-0, Pitt fumbled the kickoff, and Warburton scored again shortly thereafter. A blocked punt set up the final touchdown. Several Panthers were singled out by the crowd with standing ovations: ends Ted Dailey and Joe Skladany, guard Charles Hartwig, and back Warren Heller, who rushed for 63 yards in the final game of his brilliant Pitt career.

"Jock" Sutherland was intent on winning the Rose Bowl in his fourth try. To that end, Pitt spent two weeks working out on the west coast, for Sutherland was not going to accept 0-4 in Rose Bowl play. His tactics worked, and captain Bobby LaRue led Pitt to a 21-0 victory. LaRue's running set up the first touchdown of the game, which, fittingly, he scored. LaRue's 50-yard run in the third quarter, which would have gone 75 yards for the touchdown if not for a diving tackle, set up Frank Patrick's touchdown. Pitt led, 14-0, after three quarters. The defense added a late touchdown, returning an interception. So elated was Sutherland that he substituted every player who made the trip, so each could forever relate the experience of playing in a Rose Bowl victory. After four tries, the coach had finally overcome one of the few obstacles in his brilliant career.

A controversial pass interference penalty against Pitt's Bobby Grier, the first black man ever to play in the Sugar Bowl, put Georgia Tech on the doorstep for the game's only touchdown. Pitt, under new Head Coach John Michelosen — the only man in Pitt history to play and coach in bowl games (he was a quarterback on the 1936 Rose Bowl team) — had several chances to tie the game but hit a wall of futility. Grier's penalty gave Tech the ball on the 1, from where Wade Mitchell snuck in for the score. A fumble killed a first-quarter drive, then quarterback Corny Salvaterra was stopped on a fourth-and-goal just before halftime. Pitt's Ray DiPasquale intercepted a pass to squelch a fourth quarter threat by Tech. In the final moments, Pitt made a furious attempt to tie the game. The Panthers, who were penalized twice on the last drive, were on Tech's 5-yard line when time ran out.

Coach John Michelosen's team had wanted a rematch with Georgia Tech, but the result was the same — a seven-point loss. Pitt outgained Tech by 106 yards, 313-207, but was plagued by turnovers. Georgia Tech converted an early interception into a touchdown and a 7-0 lead. Pitt was stopped on a goal-line stand at the start of the second quarter, and Tech increased its lead late in the quarter with a halfback-option TD pass. Pitt quarterback Corny Salvaterra hit Dick Bowen with a 36-yard scoring pass just before the half, and Pitt trailed, 14-7. Bowen's fumble on the second-half kickoff set up the clinching touchdown. Pitt pulled to within seven on Salvaterra's sneak, but could draw no closer.

A new era in Pitt football was ushered in with the Panthers' first bowl appearance in 17 years. Coach-of-the-Year Johnny Majors had revived a struggling program and Pitt was 6-4-1 entering this game. Freshman Tony Dorsett was a big part of the turnaround, rushing for 1,686 yards. Pitt struck first, with Dorsett scoring two plays after Tom Perko recovered Arizona State quarterback Danny White's fumble on the first play of the game. But the Sun Devils, playing on their own field, proved too tough. Woody Green scored four plays after Dorsett's touchdown to tie the game. Arizona State scored three touchdowns in 6:04 of the fourth quarter, and although Pitt blocked all three extra points, the game ended one-sided after being tied at halftime. Dorsett rushed for 100 yards, but Pitt turned the ball over seven times. Both quarterbacks, White and Pitt's Billy Daniels, threw three interceptions, but White completed 14 of 19 for 269 yards. Daniels was 7-20 for just 57 yards.

A player rushing for 100 yards is impressive. Two players on the same team is remarkable. Three is unheard of, but that is how Pitt knocked off Kansas. Elliott Walker (11 carries for 123 yards, 11.2 average) got the ball rolling with a 60-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Tony Dorsett (27-142) scored two touchdowns in the second quarter. Pitt had nearly 300 rushing yards at the intermission. Quarterback Robert Haygood ran the veer offense to perfection, rushing for 101 yards (14 carries) when he wasn't busy pitching out to Dorsett. Haygood also connected with Gordon Jones for a touchdown after Walker scored his second of the game. Jones set up his own touchdown with a 63-yard kickoff return. With eight wins, Pitt had its best season since 1963. Dorsett rushed for 1,686 yards on the season, matching his 1973 total.

The many remarkable accomplishments Tony Dorsett achieved in his four years at Pitt were punctuated by his role in this win, one that gave Pitt its first national championship in 39 years. Dorsett, quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, and a marauding defense just would not be denied in the first indoor Sugar Bowl game. Cavanaugh, named the game's MVP, scored from 6 yards out to give Pitt a 7-0 lead. The celebration of that touchdown became a Sports Illustrated cover that can be seen at several sites around Pitt's campus. The photo headline simply read: "PITT IS IT!" Gordon Jones turned a short pass into a 59-yard touchdown excursion in the second quarter. Dorsett's 10-yard score late in the half cemented the victory. He was far from through, however. After gaining 65 yards in the first half, the Heisman Trophy winner exploded in the second to finish with a Sugar Bowl record 202 yards rushing, including 67 on one run that set up one of Carson Long's two second-half field goals. The defense created six turnovers, and limited the Bulldogs to 181 yards. Pitt defenders actually caught more Georgia passes than did Georgia receivers (four interceptions, compared to three completions in 22 attempts). Vince Dooley, Georgia's head coach, said this about the 12-0 Panthers: "They proved today they are the best in the country. They have amazing balance; they are the best defensive team we've seen — I think that is obvious. They are also the best offensive team we've faced." Pitt coach Johnny Majors, who completed his four-year stint at Pitt with a 33-13-1 record (after a combined 13-29 mark in the previous four years) was named Coach-of-the-Year for the second time at Pitt.

Pitt set five Gator Bowl records for offensive proficiency in an astounding demolition of the highly regarded Clemson Tigers. Matt Cavanaugh completed 23 of 36 passes for 387 yards and four touchdowns as Pitt outgained Clemson, 566-268. Three scoring tosses went to fullback Elliott Walker, who joined Tony Dorsett as the second Pitt back ever to rush for 1,000 yards in a season. Gordon Jones scored the other TD on one of his 10 receptions for 163 yards. Cavanaugh threw for 211 yards and two touchdowns in the first half alone. Clemson's vaunted passing combination of Steve Fuller-to-Jerry Butler was rendered ineffective by a Pitt secondary which swooped in for four interceptions, two by senior safety Bob Jury. Cavanaugh, an All-American in 1977, missed part of the season after suffering a broken wrist against Notre Dame. "I shudder to think what he could have done had he stayed healthy," said Panther Coach Jackie Sherrill, who finished his first year at Pitt with a 9-2-1 mark.

The Panthers saved their worst performance of the season for this bowl outing with North Carolina State. Primarily a running team in 1978, Pitt attempted to open it up on this night, throwing 48 passes. Four were intercepted, however. The Wolfpack, led by star running back Ted Brown, rolled up a 23-3 fourth quarter lead before Pitt quarterback Rick Trocano tried to bring the Panthers back. An 18-play drive featured four fourth-down conversions, the last of which resulted in a Freddie Jacobs touchdown. Pitt moved to State's 34-yard line with just over five minutes remaining, but an interception settled the issue. Trocano was intercepted twice more before the game ended, but he also led Pitt to the game's final touchdown. "Execution on our part was our biggest problem," Coach Jackie Sherrill said. "We didn't play well... and the turnovers hurt us." Pitt finished 8-4.

Pitt finished the 1979 season with a ten-game winning streak, built in part around the arm of freshman quarterback Dan Marino. The season finale came on Christmas Day, with the Panthers rounding out an 11-1 campaign with a 16-10 win over Arizona. The Wildcats, coached by current Pitt radio commentator Tony Mason, threatened often but did not score a touchdown until the game's waning moments. Junior cornerback Terry White intercepted two passes. One set up the second of three Mark Schubert field goals; the other allowed Pitt to run out the clock. Two of Schubert's kicks were from 46 yards out. Pitt's only touchdown came after a 12-play drive, with Marino hitting Benjie Pryor from 12 yards out. The last three plays of the drive: Marino to Mike Dombrowski for 34 yards, Marino to Ralph Still for 24 yards, and the touchdown.

Pitt's defense wanted this game badly. Its leader for four years, Hugh Green, finished second in the Heisman Trophy voting behind South Carolina's George Rogers. With the chance to avenge that result, Pitt smothered the Gamecocks with a swarming defense and an efficient offense. Rick Trocano and Dan Marino split time at quarterback; each threw a touchdown pass and Trocano added a short TD run. Although Rogers gained 113 yards, his two fumbles were more of a factor in the game than his rushing output. Tom Flynn recovered Rogers' fumble on the first play of the game, leading to Trocano's score. Randy McMillan scored two touchdowns as Pitt rolled to a 37-3 lead. The defense was led by Rickey Jackson, who made 19 tackles (14 solos). Pitt finished the season 11-1.

One of the most dramatic finishes in Pitt football history gave Pitt its second Sugar Bowl win over Georgia. Pitt trailed, 20-17, with 42 seconds remaining. It faced a fourth-and-5 at the Bulldog 33. Coach Jackie Sherrill disdained the potential 50-yard field goal attempt. "With five minutes to go I said we were not here to tie, we were here to win," Sherrill said. Dan Marino wanted to throw a short pass to a running back to get the first down, but a Georgia blitz left tight end John Brown in single coverage down the middle. Marino was right on target for the touchdown, his third of the game. The Panther defense limited Herschel Walker to 84 yards on 25 carries.

The Panthers' season came to a dismal end as Pitt lost to Southern Methodist in the Mustangs' own backyard. Dan Marino, in his last game at Pitt, was plagued by dropped passes on the cold, rainy day. He completed 19 of 37 for 181 yards. Fumbles were the story of the first quarter. Joe McCall lost one at the SMU one-yard line, but Mustang QB Lance McIlhenny returned the favor with a fumble at the Pitt seven. Eric Schubert's missed field goal attempt left the game scoreless at the half. Marino completed five straight short passes to set up Schubert's 43-yard kick which gave Pitt its only points. SMU's "Pony Express" backfield (Eric Dickerson and Craig James) led an 80-yard drive, which McIlhenny capped off with a nine-yard run. Pitt's last chance ended when a Marino pass was tipped and intercepted in the end zone.

John Congemi completed a school-record 31 passes for 341 yards, but a late Ohio State touchdown pass spoiled Congemi's, and Pitt's, afternoon. Congemi's second-quarter touchdown pass to tight end Clint Wilson tied the score at 7-7, but the Buckeyes led, 14-7, entering the fourth quarter. Wilson fell on Joe McCall's fumble in the end zone to tie the score early in the fourth quarter. Ohio State's Keith Byars scored his second touchdown by returning the ensuing kickoff 99 yards. Congemi was six-for-six on Pitt's next touchdown drive, which culminated with an 11-yard pass to Dwight Collins. Congemi, who completed 19-of-27 in the second half, had his conversion pass broken up, and Pitt trailed, 21-20. A 17-play drive later in the quarter ended with Snuffy Everett's 37-yard field goal to put the Panthers on top. Quarterback Mike Tomczak led Ohio State back, ending an 89-yard drive with a 39-yard bomb to Thad Jemison, who scored with 39 seconds remaining. Head Coach Foge Fazio's Panthers drove to the Buckeye 24, but could get no further.

Despite late heroics from Larry Wanke, Pitt was grounded in this aerial circus, as Texas quarterback Brett Stafford and split end Tony Jones set Bluebonnet Bowl records. The New Year's Eve crowd was treated to an action-packed game from the start. Stafford connected with Jones for a 77-yard touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. Pitt retaliated quickly: Billy Owens returned the kickoff 45 yards, Billy Osborn hit Reggie Williams for 45 more yards on a trick play; then Craig Heyward tied the score with a four-yard burst. Six plays later, the Longhorns took the lead for good as Stafford hit Jones on a short pass and broke for a 60-yard touchdown. Stafford finished the first quarter with 202 yards passing on the way to a 368-yard night. Jones set records for receiving yards and longest receptions. Wanke replaced Darnell Dickerson early in the third quarter after Dickerson suffered a knee injury. Wanke completed 8 of 20 passes for 172 yards and three touchdowns, including two late in the fourth quarter that cut the Longhorns' lead to five. Craig Heyward rushed for 136 yards, winning his personal battle with Texas star Eric Metcalf, who finished with 95 yards rushing. Heyward ended the season with 1,791 yards, the second-best season in Pitt history. The Panthers finished the year at 8-4, the most successful Pitt season since 1983.

Pitt on Radio

The 1989 football season marks a new direction for Panther football on radio with the entrance of nationally recognized broadcast sports syndicator Host Communications, Inc., of Lexington, KY. The University of Pittsburgh and Host Communications have an agreement which permits Host Communications to construct a regional radio network for the purpose of broadcasting all Panther football games. The Pittsburgh affiliate, WTAE-AM, will serve as the network flagship station and will be the origination point for the game broadcasts which will be distributed to approximately 30 stations in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and New Jersey. WTAE radio coverage will begin approximately one hour prior to kickoff and will continue live throughout the day, covering a full day of college football with Pitt and WTAE.

WTAE-TV (Channel 4 in Pittsburgh) will air a preseason special, "Panther Pride '89," featuring Coach Mike Gottfried on Friday, September 1, from 9-10 pm. WTAE will show three in-season specials on Monday, September 25 (8:30-9:00 pm), Monday, October 23 (8:30-9:00 pm), and Monday, November 27 (8:30-9:00 pm) and follow up with a season wrap-up special in December.

The Pitt radio broadcast team is comprised of Bill Hillgrove and Johnny Sauer. The duo is in their 14th year as a team and gives Pitt one of the top broadcasting teams in college football.

Hillgrove has been the "Voice of the Panthers" on football broadcasts the last 15 years, and has been calling Pitt basketball play-by-play for the past 19 seasons. A well-known Pittsburgh sports personality, Hillgrove has been WTAE-TV's Sports Director since 1979 and has served as Pitt ambassador of good will. He supports all Pitt athletic teams, attends Golden Panthers functions, and emcees numerous events around the city.

Sauer puts his impressive college football background to good use on the air. Sauer, who played on Army's tremendous 1945 team featuring Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard, coached at The Citadel and led the College All-Stars against the NFL Champion Green Bay Packers in 1966 and 1967. Sauer broadcast NFL football on CBS for 12 seasons, as both play-by-play man and color commentator. He has been on the broadcast team since 1974, although he has missed two seasons.

Hillgrove and Sauer will join together for the post-game show, which features a locker room report with Mike Gottfried, updated scores and reports from across the country, and an analysis of that day's game and future opponents.

Pitt Tops ESPN Charts

The highest-rated regular-season college football night game broadcast in ESPN history involves Pitt. The highest-rated weekend afternoon broadcast of any kind on ESPN involves Pitt. In short, the network and the University have a tremendous relationship.

On November 14, 1987, the Panthers' victory over Penn State earned a 6.4 rating, the highest ESPN has received for a regular-season night broadcast. In fact, only two other college football games on the network have received as high a rating since ESPN was first rated by Nielsen seven years ago. The 1982 Aloha Bowl, matching Maryland and Washington, also received a 6.4 rating, and the 1989 Mazda Gator Bowl, showcasing Georgia and Michigan State, received a 6.6.

Ratings points are indicative of how many households are connected to ESPN, and the actual rating reflects the number of televisions tuned in. Because the number of ESPN households grows annually, the number of TVs tuned to the Pitt-Penn State game (2.95 million) is the largest number in the network's football history.

But 1987 was not a one-time phenomenon. Pitt's 1986 night opener against Maryland earned the highest rating (4.8) of any ESPN college football telecast that season.

Most impressive, perhaps, is the rating for the 1984 Pitt-Brigham Young game. A late afternoon game, the contest earned a 4.4 rating, which not only still stands as the highest rated day-game in ESPN history but the network's highest rated day broadcast—in any sport—as well.

ESPN's success with Pitt football is not lost on either party. This year, ESPN is already scheduled to telecast the Pitt-Syracuse (September 23), and will likely add another game.

Heisman

Tony Dorsett in 1976 became the only player in Pitt football history to win the Heisman Trophy, awarded annually by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York to the best college football player in America.

Dorsett, however, is not the only Panther to figure prominently in the voting. In fact, a Pitt player finished in the Top 10 of the Heisman Trophy voting in nine of the past 13 years.

Dorsett also placed fourth in 1975 before winning a year later. He rushed for 2,150 yards in 12 games in his winning season. Since then, Matt Cavanaugh (seventh, 1977), Dan Marino (fourth, 1981; ninth, 1982) and Craig Heyward (5th, 1987) have done well among players at conventional Heisman positions—Cavanaugh and Marino are quarterbacks, Heyward a running back.

Two Panthers at less conventional positions have made Heisman history in this decade. Hugh Green, a defensive end, finished second to George Rogers in 1980. No defensive player has won the award since Leon Hart in 1949, and Green had the second best vote total ever among defensive linemen. Offensive tackle Bill Fralic also created a first—no offensive linemen had ever placed in the top 10 twice. Fralic was eighth in 1983 and sixth in 1984. His outcome is even more notable considering that no offensive lineman has ever won, and only two others have finished higher than Fralic in the last 15 years.

But Pitt success in the Heisman is not just a modern phenomenon. Marshall Goldberg earned third- and second-place finishes in 1937 and 1938, respectively. Edgar (Special Delivery) Jones finished seventh in 1941. In 1960, Mike Ditka garnered a sixth-place standing.

The following list was compiled from various sources during the summer of 1981, and has been updated and corrected annually since then. Although all cautions were taken to avoid errors, we do realize that names were most likely omitted due to the immensity of the task. If you have additions, or find errors in the list, please contact the Sports Information Office.

The University of Pittsburgh
From Log Cabin to Campus of the Future

Founded in a log cabin in 1787, the University of Pittsburgh is among the oldest institutions of higher education in the United States. From Pitt classrooms have come more than 200,000 graduates, whose accomplishments range from winning Olympic gold medals to saving the lives of patients once thought beyond the hope of medical science. From University laboratories have come Jonas Salk's polio vaccine and the first synthesis of vitamin C. Today, this former frontier University is the prototype for tomorrow's fiber-optic-networked campuses and is a partner in one of the world's most advanced supercomputing centers. Pitt is proudly embarked on its third century of "pioneering the future."

Campuses

The University's Pittsburgh campus consists of 70 buildings on 125 acres in Oakland, the city's educational center. Pitt also has campuses in Bradford, Greensburg, Johnstown, and Titusville, Pennsylvania.

Enrollment

Approximately 34,500 students are enrolled at the university's five campuses — 22,000 full-time and 12,500 part-time; 25,000 are undergraduates and 9,500 are graduate students. Almost 29,000 of these are enrolled at the Pittsburgh campus. Pitt students have won a number of prestigious awards in recent years, including Rhodes, Marshall and Truman scholarships, and national Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities.

Faculty

The Pitt faculty totals about 3,100; 2,450 full-time and 650 part-time. The University has 26 endowed chairs and 30 distinguished professorships. Each year the university honors teaching excellence with Chancellor's Distinguished Teaching Awards.

Governance

The University is a state-related institution and a member of the Commonwealth System of Higher Education. President Wesley W. Posvar has headed the university since 1967. The University's Board of Trustees total 45, 12 of whom are appointed by the executive and legislative branches of the Commonwealth.

Research

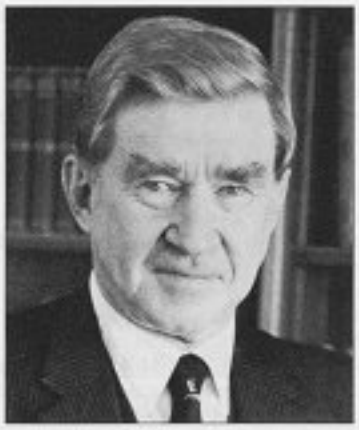
In 1974, Pitt was elected to membership in the Association of American Universities (AAU), acknowledging its position as one of the top research universities in North America. University researchers bring in more than $106 million annually for sponsored research and service projects.

National and International Renown

Pitt's programs rank among the best in the nation in a wide variety of disciplines. Philosophy — 2nd in the nation; History and Philosophy of Science — 5th; Social Work — 8th; Library and Information Science — top 10; Latin American Studies — top 10; Public Administration — top 10; Law — top 20; Business — top 20. Other highly ranked programs include: Anthropology, Art, History, Chemistry, Microbiology, Physics, Psychology, Spanish and Statistics. Pitt ranks No. 1 in federal funding for research in psychology; Pitt is fourth in federal funding for research in the social sciences. The organ transplant program in Pitt's School of Medicine is recognized worldwide. Pitt is one of only 17 schools selected for inclusion in the book The Public Ivys.

Regional Economic Revitalization

The University of Pittsburgh has long been at the forefront in creating partnerships among industry, government, and the university community for the successful economic redevelopment of the region. These partnerships lead to new jobs, the development of Pittsburgh's high-tech base, rapid technology transfer, and the general economic health of the region. A few examples: the University of Pittsburgh Applied Research Center (UPARC), a turnkey R & D center given to Pitt by the Chevron Corporation; The Pittsburgh Supercomputing Center, now the home of the fastest CRAY supercomputer outside of government use; Pitt is creating a Center for Biotechnology and Bioengineering as part of the Pittsburgh Technology Center; Pitt's Center for Hazardous Materials explores issues around hazardous materials and waste on national and international levels; and Pitt's partnership in the Western Pennsylvania Advanced Technology Center has helped in the creation of 140 companies, producing 2,200 new jobs, and in the expansion of 140 other companies and the retention of 1,200 jobs. These are only a few of the ways in which Pitt is helping to revitalize the regional economy.



Dr. Wesley W. Posvar
President

After a year-long celebration of its bicentennial in 1987, the University of Pittsburgh embarked on a $225 million "Campaign For the Third Century" led by Pitt President Wesley W. Posvar.

The campaign — already in reach of its ambitious target — strengthens Pitt's reputation as one of the nation's premier research universities. With its success, the institution and its president are well underway in a third century of challenge and accomplishment.

"The bicentennial offered all of us a fine opportunity to look back and take stock of where we are and where we're going," says Dr. Posvar, now in his 22nd year as Pitt's president. "We looked back with pride at our achievements and our consequent strengths, and planned our goals for the future. The capital campaign will ensure that we attain these goals." Posvar added, "We remain very proud that our department of athletics has achieved a sound combination of commitment to academic success measured in grades and graduations and successful performances in competition."

Dr. Posvar demonstrated in his own college career that success in athletics can complement high academic attainment. He was a college athlete at the United States Military Academy at West Point (Class of '46), where he also graduated first in his class, achieving one of the Academy's all-time highest academic records. Winning a Rhodes Scholarship to Oxford, he earned master's degrees in philosophy, politics and economics. At Harvard he earned an M.S. in public administration and a Ph.D. in political science.

As an Air Force pilot, Dr. Posvar conducted test flights on some of the earliest jets, and later flew in the Berlin Airlift. He served on the strategic planning staff at the Pentagon and the Social Sciences Division at the Air Force Academy. Dr. Posvar was named one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men in the United States by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1959.

Posvar has been president of the University of Pittsburgh since 1967. He is a leader in the management and planning of resources for technological research, education, and medical science, and his other expert interests include national security policy, long-range planning, corporate finance, and international affairs. He has traveled to more than 130 countries.

Dr. Posvar is a founding member and former chairman of the Business-Higher Education Forum, an organization comprised of the chief executives of about 30 of the nation's most powerful corporations and a like group of presidents of leading universities. In this capacity he leads efforts to improve national awareness and action in such areas as capital formation, international competitiveness, science and technology R&D, and regulatory reform.

Dr. Posvar is chairman of the Federal Emergency Management Advisory Board, an official body concerned with national preparedness for civil and economic crisis, including industrial mobilization, anti-terrorism, and continuity of government. He is chairman of the new National Advisory Council on Environmental Technology transfer and heads a special Commission on the West Point Honor Code. He serves as an advisor to the government on foreign intelligence and on civil aviation, for which he recently organized a special national study.

He has earned five academic degrees. He is a trustee of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and was one of the founders and president of the International Studies Association. He is a director of mutual funds associated with Federated Investors, Inc., managing assets of some $50 billion dollars. He served terms as director of the Rand Corporation, and Eastern Air Lines, and as an advisory director of Volvo AG. He has joined a new board that oversees national laboratories for high energy research. He is on the executive committee of the Allegheny Conference on Community Development and the boards of various cultural and economic development organizations.

"A great university," President Posvar has emphasized, "doesn't just contribute to the cultural life or athletic scene of a city; it is also a major force in the economic vitality of its regions." Posvar was instrumental in negotiating the $100 million Gulf/Chevron gift to Pitt, enabling the University to convert the 54-building Gulf research facility into an innovative center of research, development and high tech production. Also because of Posvar's leadership, the University recently broke ground for a $28 million Biotechnology Center to develop medicines, vaccines, and new bio-medical products.

In 1986 Posvar was honored by Pittsburgh Magazine as co-recipient of its first "Pittsburgher of the Year" award. President Posvar and Richard Cyert, president of Carnegie Mellon, were recognized for "their vision and leadership, and for forging bonds with industry and government that will carry Pittsburgh into the twenty-first century." The university presidents were chosen by the magazine's editorial board with the advice of Pittsburgh education, labor, religious, and arts representatives.

During Pitt's bicentennial, Posvar served as moderator of a global symposium on how government, industry, and education can join forces for the future. Members of the Inter-Action Council — a worldwide organization of former heads of government — participated in the symposium at Pitt. This exchange of ideas marked the first time the council had ever met on a university campus.

This fall, the university will host Pitt's "Chautauqua at Pitt," a major US-Soviet initiative promoting peace and understanding between the two superpowers. President Posvar will welcome 250 Soviet leaders and citizens to Pitt.

Mrs. Posvar sings professionally as Mildred Miller, a mezzo-soprano who is internationally acclaimed as a recording artist and Lieder singer and who was a principal artist for twenty-three years at the Metropolitan Opera. An active civic leader, she is founder and Artist Director of the Pittsburgh Opera Theater.

The Posvars have three children: Wesley, Marina, and Lisa.

Administration

Dr. Edward E. Bozik
Director of Athletics

Ed Bozik has been the Director of Athletics at the University of Pittsburgh since September 1, 1982. Prior to that, he served seven years as the Executive Assistant to President Wesley W. Posvar.

The Department of Athletics under Dr. Bozik's stewardship has been guided by a set of objectives provided to him by President Posvar. Improved academic performance of all student athletes continues to be the first priority, and the effort, attention, and resources dedicated to that goal have paid substantial dividends.

Since the inception of reporting of graduation rates by the NCAA in 1986, 85 percent of recruited Pitt student athletes graduated from the University, excluding the number of student athletes who left the University in good academic standing. This performance places Pitt well above the national average and in the forefront of public universities across the country.

Realizing the necessity to recognize outstanding student athletes, the Athletic Director's honor roll was implemented in 1982. Since then nearly one of every four student athletes have been named to the honor roll, indicating they maintained a 3.0 grade point average or higher.

Pitt athletes have garnered academic recognition on the national and regional levels as well. The University was recently distinguished by the achievements of three NCAA award winners including a Silver Anniversary Award recipient, a postgraduate scholar, and an NCAA Top Six winner. Since the Big East instituted academic awards in 1985, Pitt athletes have earned two Big East Scholar-Athlete of the Year awards and four postgraduate scholarships; 33 have been recognized as Big East Academic All-Stars.

Improved athletic performances in all varsity sports became the second major objective, and the foundation laid since 1982 paid dividends over the past seven years. The football team has had an overall winning record, appearing in three postseason bowl games during that time. The men's basketball team earned postseason tournament bids the last five years, including four NCAA Tournaments and an NIT appearance, and won two regular-season Big East Championship titles.

With improved financial aid and operational budgets, other varsity sports programs for both men and women began to advance to national and international championship caliber. The University of Pittsburgh has had three Olympians since 1982, including Roger Kingdom, a two-time gold medalist in the 110-meter high hurdles; Charles Smith, a forward on the 1988 men's basketball team that captured a bronze medal; and swimmer Sue Heon, who finished fourth in the 400-meter individual medley in the 1984 Olympic Games. Eight individual NCAA National Championships have been won by three Pitt athletes, including Kingdom, in 1983 and 1984; sprinter Lee McRae, who garnered his fourth NCAA title in 1988; and wrestler Pat Santoro, who earned his second consecutive title last season.

Pitt athletic teams have also been dominant within the Big East Conference. The women's and men's swimming and diving teams won their seventh consecutive Big East Championship last year, men's track has recently captured an indoor and outdoor conference title and finished in the top ten nationally in 1986 and 1987, and women's outdoor track won its first championship last spring.

Since 1982 the Pitt Golden Panthers have raised $10.6 million in annual contributions. This generosity reached an all-time record high of $1.6 million in 1989. While nearly all these funds have been used to provide financial aid for Pitt student athletes, they have freed up other resources to be used for facilities improvement. With increased national television revenues over the last seven years resulting from 28 football and 63 basketball telecasts, the athletics department has made great strides in reaching the third objective of improved athletic department facilities.

Since 1982 substantial improvements in the athletic facilities have been completed, and new ventures are currently underway. These improvements are visible through the $3.5 million Charles L. Cost Indoor Sports Center (to be completed in 1990); the $1.2 million Athletics Administration Building in Pitt Stadium; more than $4.7 million in stadium renovations, including permanent stadium lights, new turf, a substantially larger football weight room, a sports medicine clinic, and a football and soccer grass practice field; nearly $1 million in continued renovations of Fitzgerald Field House, including new offices, a players' lounge, a new track, and a remodeled wrestling and weight room; four outdoor tennis courts; baseball field, swimming pool, and gymnastics renovations; and computerized football, basketball and academic support services operations. Additional new projects of more than $1.4 million to be completed this fall include football locker room renovations, team auditorium and meeting rooms, construction of a video room studio, and computerization of the fund raising and ticket offices. Pitt Stadium will have a new sound system in the fall of 1990.

The overarching objective of the Pitt athletics programs — to maintain compliance with NCAA and University rules and regulations — has continued. Pitt remains one of the few programs in the NCAA which has not been given a public sanction or placed on probation.

Dr. Bozik is in his fifth year as a member of the NCAA Executive Committee, serving as Chairman of the Division I Championships Committee and on the Long-Range Drug Testing Facility Committee, and the Staff Evaluation and Marketing Subcommittees. He has served on the Board of Directors of the College Football Association, and is Chairman of the Big East Finance Committee and the Academic Affairs Committee.

A 1946 graduate of Donora (Pa.) High School, Dr. Bozik received his B.S. from California University of Pennsylvania in 1953 and later earned his Ph.D. in Political Science from Georgetown University. He is a trustee of LaRoche College.

Commitment in education runs throughout the Bozik family. His wife JoAn, a native of California, Pa., holds degrees in speech pathology and deaf education and a Ph.D. in educational psychology.

The Bozik children have also continued this educational commitment. Daughter Peggy Jo holds undergraduate music and psychology degrees from Pitt and is also a graduate of the Pitt Law School. Son Michael, a Notre Dame graduate, along with his wife, Beth, are graduates of the Pitt School of Medicine. They reside in Pittsburgh with their son Matthew. Son Tim, also a Notre Dame graduate, is employed as an executive editor for the College Book Division of Prentice-Hall. He and his wife, Elizabeth, reside in Upper Montclair, N.J.

In 1980, Billick was appointed to fill the newly created position of Associate Athletics Director for Public Affairs, and when Dr. Bozik was selected as Athletics Director in 1983 he designated Billick as Associate Director of Athletics. In that capacity, he has been involved in nearly all areas of the department, plus dealing specifically with Pitt's men's and women's varsity sports programs and men's basketball. He and Dr. Bozik have combined to formulate Pitt's radio and television policies which have resulted in the greatest exposure for Pitt's teams in the history of the department.

Academic Support Services

Paul Yuna

Dave Pistolesi

Lloyd Weston

Beverly Bartel

Since its founding in 1976, academic support services for student athletes has been an important part of the life of the athletes at the University of Pittsburgh. From orientation through graduation, this office has helped Pitt's football players and other athletes to reach their academic goals.

Student athletes face heavy athletic demands. Practice, conditioning, watching films, travel, and actual competition are time consuming and physically demanding. Yet these demands take second place to the academic demands placed on them. The athletes' main purpose for being at the University is to get an education. Hence, football players must take a full schedule of classes while making progress toward a degree. To assist these young people in balancing the demands of their sport while progressing to graduation is the mission of the office of academic support services for student athletes.

The office offers a wide range of services to the Pitt student athlete. Contact begins at the University's orientation, where the office administers tests and schedules freshman classes. Learning skills and study habits are strengthened through regular meetings with office personnel. Tutors are provided for those who request them, and assigned to those the staff feels need additional help. Academic and career counseling are an important part of the program. The office strives to build long-term skills to enable the athlete to be an independent and effective student who can get the most from his or her college years.

Since 1987, academic support services has been located in Pitt stadium. The office, which as an academic unit, reports to the Provost, was originally housed in the William Pitt Union. But as more athletes took advantage of the unit's services and the staff grew in number, more space was needed. Today the unit can be found in new offices in the University's athletic facility.

The academic support service unit is directed by Paul Yuna, a former Pitt football player who is also pursuing a Ph.D. Assisting him are Beverly Bartel, who is responsible for the tutorial component; Dr. Lloyd Weston, a former Pitt football All-America, who is charge of academic and personal counseling; Dave Pistolesi, coordinator of the unit's efforts with the men's basketball team; and Jennifer Orr, the administrative assistant. All are committed to assisting Pitt's student athletes in making the most of their college experience.

Medical Staff

The Panthers receive medical care provided by the University Division of Sports Medicine, which sponsors regular sports medicine clinics at Pitt Stadium where Pitt varsity athletes are examined and treated.

Dr. Freddie H. Fu, team physician and orthopaedic surgeon, is assisted by Dr. Christopher Harner (Assistant Team Physician), Dr. Paul Nelson (Neurology), Dr. Thomas Painter (Internal Medicine) and Dr. Andrew Feldman (Sports Medicine Fellow). In addition, a staff of consulting specialists is available at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine to assist in providing top quality medical treatment to more than 500 male and female varsity athletes. Hospital care is provided at Presbyterian-University Hospital.

Prior to any practices or competition, each varsity athlete receives a comprehensive physical examination. The physical well-being of the athletes is monitored during competition and training. Effort is made to provide not only treatment for injury or illness that may occur, but also preventive measures which will make participation as safe as possible.

To achieve these goals, the Division of Sports Medicine boasts a highly qualified staff of trainers, including head football trainer Robert Blanc and assistant football trainer Mark Pardee.

The University of Pittsburgh offers a National Athletic Training Association approved undergraduate curriculum designed to prepare students for certification examination. This program was established in 1975 and is offered through the School of Education Program in Health, Physical, and Recreation Education.

Internationally renowned surgeon Dr. Freddie H. Fu joined the Pitt athletic staff in 1986 as team physician and orthopaedic surgeon.

Dr. Fu graduated summa cum laude from Dartmouth College in 1974, and received his B.M.S. in 1975 from Dartmouth Medical School. He earned his medical degree in 1977 at the University of Pittsburgh and completed his general surgery internship at Brown University. He then returned to Pitt to study under an orthopaedic research fellowship and complete his residency in orthopaedic surgery. During that time, Dr. Fu studied under an A.O. International Fellowship at the Hannover Trauma Center in West Germany, and studied arthroscopic surgery at East Lansing, Michigan.

He is currently the Medical Director at the University of Pittsburgh Institute for Sports and Preventive Medicine and Director of Sports Medicine Department of Orthopaedic Surgery.

Dr. Fu, who has been elected to the Herodicus Society, a prestigious sports-medicine organization with limited world-wide membership, was honored in May, 1988, when he toured Europe representing the United States. He travelled through 17 cities as the Sports Medicine Travelling Fellow representing this nation as an orthopaedic specialist in sports medicine. He visited nearly 35 sports medicine centers.

He is also the Medical Director of the Pittsburgh Marathon, Company Doctor for the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, and Team Physician of Mt. Lebanon High School.

During his career Dr. Fu has published over three dozen manuscripts, books and articles and has prepared and delivered various film and slide presentations reaching audiences in Europe and Asia. In 1987, Dr. Fu made a slide presentation about Pitt football on a Hong Kong television show.

Dr. Fu is involved with several research projects, many of which examine the effects of various activities on ligaments and joints.

He has a large involvement in the community — he recently donated a $100 thousand endowed scholarship to benefit the University of Pittsburgh Athletic Training Program. Dr. Fu is on the Board of Trustees of the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, Board of Governors of The Rivers Club, Board of Directors of The University Club, and he is President of the Children's Festival Chorus of Pittsburgh.

Dr. Fu and his wife Hilda have two children, Gordon, 12, and Joyce, 7, and reside in Point Breeze.

Robert Blanc
Head Football Trainer

Robert Blanc was named head football trainer at Pitt in 1988 after working as head athletic trainer at Duquesne University.

He spent two years at Duquesne, and was responsible for 16 varsity and two club teams. Among his achievements there was developing a five-year plan for the Sports Medicine Department, which included designing, equipping, and coordinating daily use of a new athletic training facility.

Blanc graduated from Slippery Rock in 1982, and earned a Master's Degree in Physical Education in 1984 at Ohio University. He is a certified paramedic, and works in that capacity (along with related administrative matters) in Bethel Park. He is a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association.

Blanc began his training career as the Head Athletic Trainer at New Lexington (OH) High School in 1983. A year later, Blanc began working for the Steelers, a part-time association he still maintains. In that capacity, Blanc works at training camp and at home games in all aspects of sports medicine. He also is involved in the scouting department, giving physical examinations to several prospective draft choices.

Blanc and his wife Margie reside in Whitehall.

Running a major college football program requires a team effort behind the scenes. The Pitt support staff is experienced and their functions are many, from making sure equipment gets to and from road games, to photocopying playbooks legibly, to editing press releases and program stories, to handling the heavy volume of mail a football team attracts. The Pitt football team's success is a strong example of the whole being greater than the sum of its parts; like the eleven players on the field, everyone carrying out duties properly helps Mike Gottfried and his staff concentrate on everyone's goal — winning football games.

Golden Panthers

The Pitt Golden Panthers were founded on December 1, 1970. Their original purpose was to promote interest, enthusiasm, and support among students, alumni, faculty and friends of the University of Pittsburgh for the betterment of the athletic program. That purpose has changed. In 1974, the Golden Panthers shifted their ideology toward encouraging and soliciting contributions to the athletic fund.

The vitality of this organization comes from its volunteer members — dedicated, loyal, and enthusiastic people proud of Pitt and its student athletes — and from Assistant Athletic Director for Development Bob Heddleston (formerly the Executive Director of the Golden Panthers) and his assistant Carol Petrocky.

Heddleston has been a primary force behind the Golden Panthers since being named Executive Director in 1976. Contributions have increased from $200,000 in 1976 to more than $1.6 million in 1988 with an optimistic goal of $2 million in 1989.

The Golden Panthers have raised more than $10 million, with most of these funds going toward providing scholarships for varsity athletes. These contributions also have enabled Pitt to improve facilities, augment the funding of non-revenue sports, and establish a tradition for continued success in all varsity sports.

They are also working on a capital campaign of raising 2.5 million dollars for a new indoor workout facility of which 1.9 million dollars has currently been raised. Also, 2.2 million dollars has been contributed for endowed scholarships.

All contributors to the Golden Panthers receive benefits based on their level of contribution. These benefits include attendance at special functions, ticket priority, special parking privileges, and the Golden Panther Prints newsletter. Donors also receive credit in the university's annual giving fund and its giving clubs. The Golden Panthers invite not only Pitt alumni, but, also "friends of Pitt" to become a part of their organization.

They are the perfect blend of charm and talent–the Pitt cheerleaders.

Theresa and Mike Nuzzo took over the Pitt cheerleading program six years ago, implementing dynamic dance and gymnastics routines into high-energy sideline shows.

The results are obvious.

Pitt's cheerleaders have competed in the last four national cheerleading competitions, held in the sun and fun of Hawaii, Miami, Orlando and San Diego.

They finished in the top 12 in the country in 1988, the top five in 1987, were the Northeastern regional champions in 1986, and placed in the top seven in 1985.

The Nuzzos are also founders of the Elite Cheerleading Organization, which instructs more than 18,000 cheerleaders throughout the United States.

Bands

When O'Neill Sanford took over as Pitt's band director in 1985, there were 90 musicians —in the entire band. "It was definitely a problem," Sanford says, "especially for a stadium as big as ours."

Sanford went out and remedied the situation.

Over the past couple years the band has steadily grown, from about 140 members in 1987 to over 200 this year. This growth is a positive indication about the direction in which the band is heading.

"We'll be a much better band," Sanford said. "This year's recruiting has been terrific."

The enlarged band this year will field nearly 225 members, including 25 color guards and the Golden Girls.

The improvement in the band will be obvious not only on the football field and at Fitzgerald Field House for basketball games, but at various other University and community events with the concert band.

The music the band performs is as diverse as its individuals, from marches to classical, from contemporary to broadway. Both Sanford and associate director David Moy want to make certain that there is a song for everyone.

"We try to do a variety of music throughout the season," Sanford said, "in hopes that we can touch all our fans at some time or another."

O'Neill Sanford
Director of Bands

O'Neill Sanford is in his fifth year as Pitt's Director of Bands, and in that time, the program has grown considerably.

Sanford came to Pitt in the summer of 1985 from the University of Minnesota, where he was band director for nine years. He previously had worked at Mississippi Valley State College, Virginia State College, and Sevier (La.) High School.

Sanford received his degree in music education from Southern University and his master's degree from Vandercook College of Music.

David Moy
Associate Director of Bands

David Moy is in his fifth year as the Associate Director of Bands, coming to Pitt from the University of Minnesota with O'Neill Sanford. He was the assistant marching band director there for five years.

Moy's responsibilities at Pitt include the percussion section, writing drill maneuvers, and administration.

Pitt's Varsity Sports Tradition

Pitt has a diverse and successful varsity athletics program featuring 19 team sports. And, while Pitt football has provided many great teams and athletes for a century, the University's other sports programs also have enjoyed great success in Division One competition and, more recently, in the Big East Conference.

With one of the elite athletics programs in the country, Pitt athletes and teams are a continuing source of esteem to the University.

Men's basketball, which first emerged at Pitt in 1905, had its first great success under Dr. H.C. Carlson. Carlson guided the basketball team for 31 years (1922-1953), compiling 367 wins and two national titles. Pitt captured its first "mythical" national title in 1927-28 and finished the season 21-0. The team won its second championship the following season (1928-29).

The 1973-74 season was the most successful of the modern era. Under Head Coach Charles "Buzz" Ridl, the Panthers compiled a 22-game winning streak, the longest in Pitt history. Billy Knight was an All-America forward and later became Pitt's first All-Pro basketball player with the Indiana Pacers.

Pitt basketball instantly gained in national prominence in 1982 when it joined the Big East Conference. Charles Smith, who became Pitt's all-time leading scorer, and rebounding phenom Jerome Lane helped lead the team to new heights, including two regular-season Big East championships and two consecutive NCAA tournament appearances.

This past season, the Panthers qualified for their third consecutive NCAA Tournament and recorded upset victories over four different teams ranked in the Top 10 at the time of the Pitt game: Syracuse (No. 2), Oklahoma (No. 3), Seton Hall (No. 9), and Georgetown (No. 2).

Brian Shorter was selected the Big East Rookie of the Year and first-team All-Conference. Jason Matthews was named third-team All-Conference.

Women's basketball began at Pitt in 1916, and the 1924-25 team completed its 10-game schedule undefeated. But, the program was disbanded after 10 successful seasons. Vee Toner, still an active supporter of Pitt athletics, was a member of the Lady Panther basketball team during its last couple seasons and participated in several intramural sports.

Revived as a varsity sport in 1974, the Lady Panther basketball team has won three Eastern championships and placed nine teams in the national Top 20.

Head Coach Kirk Bruce, who was hired in 1985, continues to guide the Lady Panthers. Each year under Bruce the team has shown steady improvement, and with all of Bruce's recruits intact for the 1989-90 season, the future looks bright.

Last season, the fourth under Bruce, was highlighted by the Lady Panthers' upset win at Penn State, the first win at Rec Hall in 10 games. First-team All-Big East forward Lorri Johnson finished 12th in the country in scoring (24.2 ppg.).

Baseball is the university's oldest sport, dating back to 1869. Head Coach Bob Lewis has been a fixture with the baseball program for nearly 40 years—four as a player and 35 as the Panthers' coach.

Lewis has compiled a 430-362 record during his tenure as head coach and coached a number of great athletes, including George "Doc" Medich (1969) and Ken Macha (1970-72), both of whom played in the major leagues, and two baseball All-Americans—shortstop George Schoeppner and center fielder Fred Mazurek.

Two modern day players currently in the major-league farm system are catcher Chris Jelic (New York Mets) and Frank Merigliano (Chicago White Sox).

Men's gymnastics began at Pitt in 1954 under Coach Warren Neiger, and has had its share of accomplishment in its 35-year history. The most successful gymnast in Pitt history was Tom Darling, the Panthers' only NCAA gymnastics national champion, who won the 1957 and 1958 rings competition. He also served as captain of Pitt's most successful team in 1957-58, which finished seventh in the NCAA Championships. Current Head Coach Frank D'Amico, who took over the team in 1978, guided Pitt to another NCAA Tournament team appearance in the 1980-81 season.

Jorge Sanchez gained All-America status in 1987 by finishing fourth in the floor exercise.

Last season, the Panthers finished with an 11-5 record and Jorge Gonzalez qualified for the NCAA's for the second consecutive year in the pommel horse.

The women's gymnastics program joined the athletics department in 1974, but was part of the university sports scene since 1970, when it was a part of the physical education department. Donna Sanft, who was a standout gymnast, was the Lady Panthers' first head coach and quickly built the team into a highly competitive unit.

In 14 years, many Pitt women gymnasts earned All-America and All-East honors. Sanft's 1978-79 team finished the season ranked in the Top 10 nationally. In 1982, Lisa Shirk became the first Pitt female gymnast to win a national championship, capturing the uneven bars.

Current Head Coach Debbie Yohman was named to her position in 1986. Last season, the team had three ECAC All-Conference performers: Jennifer Butkovich, Jeannie Vecchio, and Gina Venezia.

Coach Leo Bemis initiated the varsity soccer program at Pitt in 1953 and remained coach until 1983. Bemis coached a number of winning teams, highlighted by NCAA tournament teams in 1962 and 1965.

Joe Luxbacher, a former Panther player who holds two school scoring records, took over the program in 1984 after serving as Bemis's assistant.

The Panthers continue to be highly competitive and play in the rugged Big East Conference.

Two of the most accomplished athletic programs at Pitt are the men's and women's swimming and diving teams. Last season, both teams won their seventh straight Big East Conference Championship. Women's Coach Dr. David Belowich, who won his fifth Big East Coach of the Year Award, and Men's Coach Dick Bradshaw guided their teams to 9-1 and 8-2 records, respectively.

Men's swimming dates back to 1914 with coach John T. Taylor, who began Pitt's fine swimming tradition. Pitt has produced three individual All-Americans: Stu Swanson, Jerry DeMuro, and Pat Greenwell, and several Eastern Champions. Perhaps, the most famous swimmer at Pitt was former broadcasting legend Bob Prince.

Last season, the Panthers completed one of their best campaigns in recent years and sent four swimmers and two divers to the NCAA Championships. The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Mike Kozlina, Tim Adams, Bill Folger, and Scott Jeffries earned honorable mention All-America honors by finishing 16th at the NCAA's. Divers John Sharkey and Vernon Yenick also competed in the national championships.

Pitt has had 15 women swimming All-Americans, including four four-year All-Americans, one national champion (Kathy Stetler, 50-meter butterfly in 1978), and three Olympians (most recently Sue Heon, who represented the U.S.A. in the 1984 Games in Los Angeles).

Last season, the Lady Panthers broke four school records. Freshman Laura-Lee Sullivan was named the Big East Outstanding Female Swimmer, and the team finished third in the Eastern Swimming League Championships.

The men's tennis program began at Pitt in the early 1900s. The peak years for the program occurred in the mid-1920s with perhaps the greatest season coming in 1926 when the team finished with a 13-0 record. The Panthers dominated opponents, rarely allowing even a single individual victory. Eddie Jacobs, who played in the late 1920s, was a United States Davis Cup selection.

Current Men's and Women's Head Coach George Dieffenbach played on Pitt's outstanding 1972 squad, which finished 11-2 after logging a 2-13 season the previous year.

Last season, the men had an 11-11 record, while the women's team was 7-6. Senior Bonnie Kartzman was selected for the Blue-Gold Award and received a Big East postgraduate scholarship. Both programs should benefit from the construction of the Charles L. Cost Sports Center indoor multi-purpose facility, which is scheduled for completion in the spring of 1990.

Some of Pitt's greatest athletes have been produced by the track and field programs. Track at Pitt dates back to the early 1900s and has probably brought more national glory to the University than any other sport, except for football.

The Panthers' surge to national prominence really began when Olympian Frank Shea began coaching in 1923. Since then Pitt has sent a number of performers to the Olympics. John Woodruff was Pitt's first gold medalist when he won the 800-meter run at the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin, Germany. Other Olympians from Pitt included pole vaulter Vince Pickard (1924), silver-medal long jumper Herb Douglas (1936), 800-meter runner Arnie Sowell (1958), and long jumper Bill Rea (1980).

Current Head Coach John Vasvary has continued Pitt's outstanding track tradition by developing great performers such as two-time Olympic gold medalist Roger Kingdom (110-meter hurdles) and Lee McRae, who won four NCAA titles and set the world indoor 55-meter dash record (6.00).

Last season Vasvary's team won its first Big East Outdoor Track Championship and finished second in the Indoor Championships. Hurdler Eric Cannon capped his brilliant career by finishing second at the NCAA championships in the 110-meter hurdles and earning All-America honors. Teammates Elbert Ellis (110-meter hurdles) and Dave Moore (800 meters) also received All-America honors.

The women's track and field program is building its own lofty reputation. Peri Jude Radecic (discus) and Gwen Murray (400 meters) were the Lady Panthers' first All-Americans in 1982. Marie Ribik Kennedy, however, was the first female track performer to place in national competition. She finished fourth in the high jump at the 1976 AIAW Championships, but All-America status was not awarded in the sport until several years later.

Last season the women's squad, coached by Steve Lewis, won its first Big East Indoor Championship. Debbie Bonner (55-meter hurdles) and Keisha Demas (400 meters) captured individual titles, along with the 1,600-meter relay team.

In the outdoor season, Demas (400 meters) and the 1,600-meter relay team qualified for the NCAA's. Bonner, voted the Outstanding Performer, won her fourth Big East 100-meter hurdle title, the 400-meter hurdles, and was a member of the winning 1,600-meter relay team.

Since the program's inception in 1974, Pitt's women's volleyball team has not suffered one losing season. Mike Hebert coached the team from 1976 to 1979 and won two EAIAW titles.

For a decade, Shelton Collier cultivated the women's volleyball program into national prominence. Now, he has turned over the legacy to Sue Woodstra, captain of the 1984 U.S.A. silver medal-winning Olympic team. Woodstra replaced Collier as the Lady Panthers coach in January.

Last season, the team capped its 24-9 season with a fourth Big East Conference Tournament championship. Denise Frawley was named the tournament MVP, along with being a Volleyball Monthly honorable mention All-America selection, Northeast Region All-Star, and the recipient of the Female Panther Award.

Since its beginning in 1914, the Pitt wrestling program has produced 14 individual NCAA champions, including Pat Santoro, who won his second consecutive 142-pound title last season. Santoro joins wrestling greats Hugh Peery (1952, 1953 and 1954) and Ed Peery (1955, 1956 and 1957) as the only Pitt wrestlers to win multiple national titles. Santoro also became Pitt's third male to earn four-time All-America status (joining football's Tony Dorsett and Hugh Green).

Rex Peery, Pitt's legendary coach, is considered the "Father of Pitt Wrestling." He took over the program in 1949-50 and, after a 0-10 inaugural season, turned a struggling program into a nationally competitive team.

Current Head Coach Rande Stottlemyer has contributed heavily to the Pitt wrestling tradition himself; he was a three-time All-American. Last year's team finished 13th in the NCAA tournament and second in the Eastern Wrestling League tournament, its highest EWL finish.

Overall, the Pitt sports programs concluded the 1988-89 season by finishing third — out of nine — in the Big East Commissioner's Trophy standings for the second consecutive year. The trophy, based on a points system, is determined by the team finishes in the league's nine men and seven women's championship events.

The Varsity Walk

Names of former Pitt athletes who have excelled at the University of Pittsburgh through their athletic and academic achievement are engraved on the Varsity Walk

On the University of Pittsburgh campus, between the Cathedral of Learning and Heinz Chapel, is a sidewalk known as the Varsity Walk. There, embedded in the stones, are the names of former Pitt athletes who have promoted the University through their athletic or academic achievements.

The Varsity Walk was conceived in 1950 as a way to honor athletes and remember their contributions to the University of Pittsburgh. New members are added each year. The distinctive hand-carved stones were first presented as the Athletic Committee Award and the Charles C. Hartwig Award. The Athletic Committee recognized the best athlete from any sport. The Charles Hartwig Award was given to the senior athlete who promoted and sponsored the best interests of Pitt athletics, in honor of the 1934 All-America tight end.

In 1971 the awards were changed to the Panther and Blue-Gold awards, respectively.

The Panther Award is presented to the graduating senior athlete who has promoted Pitt athletics through his/her outstanding athletic achievement.

An athlete receives the Blue-Gold Award when he/she represents the student-athlete ideal based on academic scholarship, athletic achievement, leadership qualities and citizenship.

The awards were expanded to include females in 1975.

Pitt Stadium History

The Panthers have used Pitt Stadium as their football home since 1925, after playing in several other Pittsburgh venues: old Recreation Park on the North Side and Exposition Park until 1909, and Forbes Field from 1909-1924.

The original Stadium Committee appointed by the Board of Trustees to oversee a bond sale and construction included George H. Clapp, President; Homer D. Williams, Chairman; K.E. Davis, Secretary; A.R. Hamilton, A. J. Kelly, Jr., C. W. Ridinger, C. L. Wooldridge, C. D. Wettach and Floyd Rose, Committee Members.

Construction of the stadium began in August, 1924, and was completed September 1, 1925, less than four weeks before Pitt played Washington & Lee in the first game. The stadium was officially dedicated when Pitt hosted Carnegie Tech on October 24, 1925.

The facility was originally constructed because Forbes Field could only hold 32,000 spectators. The new stadium held 70,000 people, and plans were already designed to expand up to 100,000 if the demand was that great. Later, the seating area was actually lessened to 56,500 — the current capacity — to expand the track which surrounds the field.

Pitt Stadium, designed by engineer W.S. Hindman (Pitt class of 1898) was a unique facility at the time of its construction because it housed nearly all of the university's non-aquatic sports: football, basketball, track, baseball, rifle and gymnastics. The basketball court in the Stadium Pavillion (beneath the ramps inside Gate 2) served as Pitt's home from 1925 to 1951, when Fitzgerald Field House opened.

The Pittsburgh Steelers and Carnegie Tech (now Carnegie Mellon University) have used Pitt Stadium as their home fields at one time or another.

The stadium has undergone several significant changes, particularly within the past 20 years. In 1970, Astroturf became the playing surface, replacing natural grass. A Superturf surface replaced the Astroturf in 1984.

One improvement that hit close to home with Panther supporters in the late 1970s was a change in seating structures from wood to metal benches, eliminating the splintery discomfort from some 17 miles of wood that had been subjected to a half-century of the elements.

The current scoreboard was installed for the 1977 season, giving Pitt a message center and auxiliary board in the opposite endzone. A new computer system, featuring state-of-the-art football animation software, was installed this summer, vastly enhancing the capabilities of the message center. The auxiliary scoreboard was also modified in 1988, and now includes significant game data including down and distance.

Pitt has dedicated a multipurpose room inside Gate 2 at the Stadium as the Eiseman-Prussin Conference Room, in memory of Edwin H. Eiseman, a 1967 Pitt graduate. George J. Prussin contributed $75,000 to the planned indoor athletic complex and wanted, in some way, "to honor and sustain the memory" of Eiseman.

Directions to Pitt Stadium

From the airport:

Take I-279 East towards Pittsburgh. Pass through the Fort Pitt Tunnel, stay to the right, and bear right on the first ramp after the tunnel, onto I-376. Exit I-376 at the Oakland/Forbes Ave. exit, which is the first off ramp you will encounter. At the third light, turn left (University Inn and Exxon station on the corner). Go straight through the first stoplight and up the hill (Darragh St.) to the first stop sign. Turn right and the Stadium is two blocks on the left. Approximate driving time: 25-30 minutes.

From the Pennsylvania Turnpike (76):

Take the Pittsburgh/Monroeville Exit (6) off the Turnpike and follow I-376 towards Pittsburgh. Take Oakland Exit (7). Proceed up the hill and straight through the first stoplight. Make the second left (after the stoplight) onto McKee Avenue. Go straight through two stoplights, up a hill (Darragh St.) and make a right at the first stop sign. The Stadium is two blocks on the left.
Approximate driving time: 30 minutes.

A 1967 graduate and a member of Pitt's baseball team, Prussin became friendly with Eiseman through the Phi Epsilon Pi fraternity and through intramural sports. Eiseman died of Hodgkins disease in 1969.

Lights were installed on a temporary per-game basis for night games in 1985 and 1986. Pitt's first night game ever in the stadium was a thrilling 31-30 win over Purdue in August of 1985. Permanent lights were installed before the 1987 season.

The lights consist of six standards—four on the home side of the field and two on the visitor's side—and range from 110- to 180-feet tall. Each pole contains 50 1,500-watt metal halide lighting fixtures. The system is designed to reduce glare and augment television depth perception.

Pitt Stadium is now the home of the Panthers' football, soccer and track teams.

Charles L. Cost Sports Center

Ground was officially broken on Feb. 9, 1989, for the Charles L. Cost Sports Center. Participating in the ceremony were (left): Dr. Wesley Posvar, University of Pittsburgh President; Fran and Charles L. "Corky" Cost; Tom Celli, of the architectural firm Celli, Flynn, and Associates; Dr. Edward E. Bozik, Director of Athletics; and John Marous, president and CEO of Westinghouse and chairman of Pitt's Board of Trustees.

Charles L. "Corky" Cost and his wife, Fran

In the days of parity in collegiate athletics, where those competing are continually getting stronger and faster and bigger, it requires more than individual dedication from the athletes to maintain success. It takes a commitment from the community, the administration, the coaching staff, as well as the young men themselves.

That commitment has been made.

Charles L. "Corky" Cost, a three-sport letterman at Pitt in the mid-1950s and a successful contractor in Pittsburgh, has donated in excess of $1 million toward the construction of the University's new state-of-the-times indoor athletic facility. The complex, which is currently under construction and is projected to be completed in the spring of 1990, will be called the Charles L. Cost Sports Center.

"It's definitely something we need for the athletic program to remain competitive," Pitt Athletic Director Dr. Edward E. Bozik said.

The $4.5 million building will allow Mike Gottfried's football team to continue climbing toward a national championship, even when the weather does not cooperate; it will allow George Dieffenbach's tennis teams to practice and play, only hearing the ping of rain on the metal roof; even the baseball, volleyball, and track teams can benefit.

The possibilities are limitless.

The facility will be seated on the top of a seven-story parking garage on Robinson St., behind Trees Hall. It will be spacious enough to house a regulation football field or nine tennis courts—a transformation that can be completed in hours.

Other features which will make the 62-foot high building one of the most effective of its kind in the country are a multipurpose surface called Poligrass, men's and women's locker rooms, a catwalk for filming or viewing practices, padded interior walls, a ventilation system, and indirect lighting.

"We clearly have a pressing need for an indoor sports complex which would provide us the opportunity to improve dramatically some very substandard tennis facilities," Bozik said. "It's equally obvious that we need a facility that would provide us the opportunity for the football team to use in cases of inclement weather, bowl preparation, and off-season conditioning drills."

Pitt will have such a facility in the near future.

Pitt's Football Weight Room: "The Iron Works"

Renovated and expanded last year to nearly double its original size, the Pitt football weight room, "The Iron Works", is one of the most modern and best equipped facilities of its kind in the country. The renovations included the installation of new carpeting and several new pieces of Nautilus machines, and the addition of nearly 7,000 pounds of free weights to the over 20,000 pounds of existing weights. Under the auspices of Strength Coach Buddy Morris, "The Iron Works" is active every day and is a showcase for the Pitt football program.

Weight training is vital to injury prevention as defensive end Carnel Smith demonstrates in "The Iron Works."

Former Panther Troy Washington gets a hand from Strength Coach Buddy Morris who keeps a watchful eye over all the players' workouts.

Not only do the current Panther players use the facility, but many former players, like Jim Sweeney (pictured) of the New York Jets, work out here in the offseason.

Promoting the Panthers

In the past two decades, a number of prominent Panthers have won All-America honors and college football awards. Pictured on this page are a few examples of some of the spirited and light-hearted promotional materials produced by the Pitt Athletic Department to support the on-field efforts of some of Pitt's finest.
